Noting the Pack

THE RETURN OF "THE STALLIONS"

In 1972 and 1973, when Chuck Amato was a young assistant coach at NC State, the Wolfpack boasted one of the top quartets of running backs ever assembled by an ACC team. Nicknamed "The Stallions," Stan Fritts, Charley Young, Roland Hooks and Willie Burden led the Pack to 272.3 rushing yards per game in 1973, a school record and the eighth-best mark in ACC history.

This season may seem like deja vu for those who watched the Stallions play in the early 70s, as the Wolfpack has a stable full of talented runners chomping at the bit to get on the field.

Three letterwinners, all of whom have started games at tailback during their brief Wolfpack careers, return in 2005 - basher Reggie Davis, slasher Darrell Blackman and dasher Bobby Washington. Two freshmen will join that crew this season; Andre Brown, who originally signed with the Pack in 2004 and spent last season playing in prep school, and Toney Baker, who ran for over 10,000 yards and set a state record in high school.

Washington, Blackman, Baker and Brown were all named Parade All-Americans during their high school careers.

NATIONAL LEADERS

In 2004, NC State became just the third team in ACC history to lead the nation in total defense, when the Wolfpack allowed just 221.4 yards per game. It was the best total defense mark for NC State since the formation of the ACC in 1953 and the second-best mark in school history (the record was 161.4 in 1946).

The Wolfpack made its biggest turnaround in terms of pass defense, ranking second nationally by allowing just 119 aerial yards per game, the lowest mark since 1979. The previous season, NC State had ranked 116th in pass defense, allowing a whopping 284.1 yards per contest.

NC State posted four of the top 25 total defense games in the country last season (91 vs. Maryland, 4th; 121 vs. FSU, 15th; 137 vs. Ohio State, 23rd; 140 vs. East Carolina, 25th).

LOSING GROUND

Five members of the 2005 Wolfpack defense have etched their names in the NC State record book in terms of single-season tackles for loss. Mario Williams, whose 15 TFLs in 2004 tied for the sixth-best mark in school history, also holds the No. 13 mark, as he tallied 13 in 2003.

Oliver Hoyte made 14.5 stops behind the line of scrimmage last season, the ninth-best tally ever by a Wolfpack defender, while John McCargo's 14 in 2003 ties with Stephen Tulloch's mark from last season to tie for 10th.

Manny Lawson, who had a dozen stops for loss in 2004, is tied for 16th.

In the career tackles for loss category, Williams ranks ninth with 28, while Hoyte is 12th with 25.5.

GETTING COORDINATED

Chuck Amato has revamped his coaching staff for the 2005 season, as new coaches will be coordinating the offense and defense, as well as mentoring the wide receivers. The three coaches bring 62 years of collective experience to the Wolfpack staff and all three have coached for successful teams and programs.

Offensive coordinator Marc Trestman, a 22-year veteran of the coaching ranks, has been on eight different NFL coaching staffs, most recently as assistant head coach of the Miami Dolphins. Steve Dunlap brings 24 years of experience to the defensive coordinator's position, serving long stints at Syracuse and West Virginia.

Former NFL player Dwayne Dixon spent the last two years as the Assistant Head Coach at the University of Florida, but has served as an assistant coach at his alma mater since 1994.

DAVIS QUIETLY MOVES INTO RECORD BOOKS

Following in the footsteps of one of the greatest players in ACC history is certainly not an easy task, but Wolfpack quarterback Jay Davis graciously accepted that role last season and quietly earned his own spot in the NC State records books.

After serving as the backup to Philip Rivers for two seasons, Davis was the starting quarterback for NC State in all 11 games in 2004 and threw for 2,104 yards, the second-highest mark in the ACC last season and the 10th-best in school history. He has now completed 56% of his career passes, a mark which ranks sixth in the Wolfpack career record book.

Davis, who was the only quarterback in the ACC to throw for over 200 yards in six straight games last season, was understandably effected by the injuries to starters on the offensive line. By the time the Miami game had ended, three of the five starters on the OL were injured and two missed the last four games of the season. In the seven games prior to those injuries, Davis was sacked 11 times, an average of 1.6 sacks per game. In the four games after his linemen went out, he was sacked 17 times, an average of 4.3 per contest.

In the first seven games, Davis threw eight TD passes and six INTs, and in the last four games, threw just four TD to nine INTs.

Jay Davis etched his name into the Wolfpack record books last season.

SCORING STREAK

NC State has scored in 115 consecutive games, the fifth-longest scoring streak in ACC history and the longest in school history.

The last time the Wolfpack was held scoreless was on September 23, 1995, when Baylor shut NC State out in Raleigh, 14-0.

THE CARDIAC PACK

The 1983 NC State men's basketball team that shocked the nation by winning the national championship won four of its six NCAA Tournament games by two points or less, earning the moniker "The Cardiac Pack."

Chuck Amato's Wolfpack teams have also been referred to as "The Cardiac Pack." In Amato's 62 games as head coach at his alma mater, his squads have entered the fourth quarter with the score differing by seven points or less 30 times.

NC State has come from behind to gain victory in 17 of its 39 wins under Amato and has either trailed or been tied in the fourth quarter in nine of those wins. Under Amato, NC State has taken seven games into overtime and in 19 of the squad's 23 losses, had a chance to win (within eight points) late in the game.

IN AMATO'S 62 GAMES:

Record 39-23

SOLIDIFYING THE SECONDARY

While the defensive line from NC State's top-ranked defense remains in tact, the defensive secondary will look completely different in 2005. All four of the regular starters from last season have completed their eligibility, with three (Andre Maddox, Lamont Reid, Dovonte Edwards) joining the NFL ranks.

However, the four projected starters for the upcoming campaign have combined to start 24 career games and 2,818 snaps.

Most of that action has been seen by Marcus Hudson, who started six games at free safety last season. The senior will be back at cornerback in 2005, where he started five games in 2001 and a dozen games in 2002.

At the other corner, veteran A.J. Davis should finally be a starter. The junior has seen frequent action over his career, playing 365 snaps last season and 403 in 2003.

Although he's never started a game, Garland Heath saw frequent action behind Maddox over the past two seasons and has also been a top performer on special teams. At the free safety spot, senior J.J. Jones has been a mainstay on special teams for three years and should see much more action as a senior.

Sophomore Miguel Scott will vie with Jones for the starter's job at free safety.

PACK PLAYERS SAY "I DO"

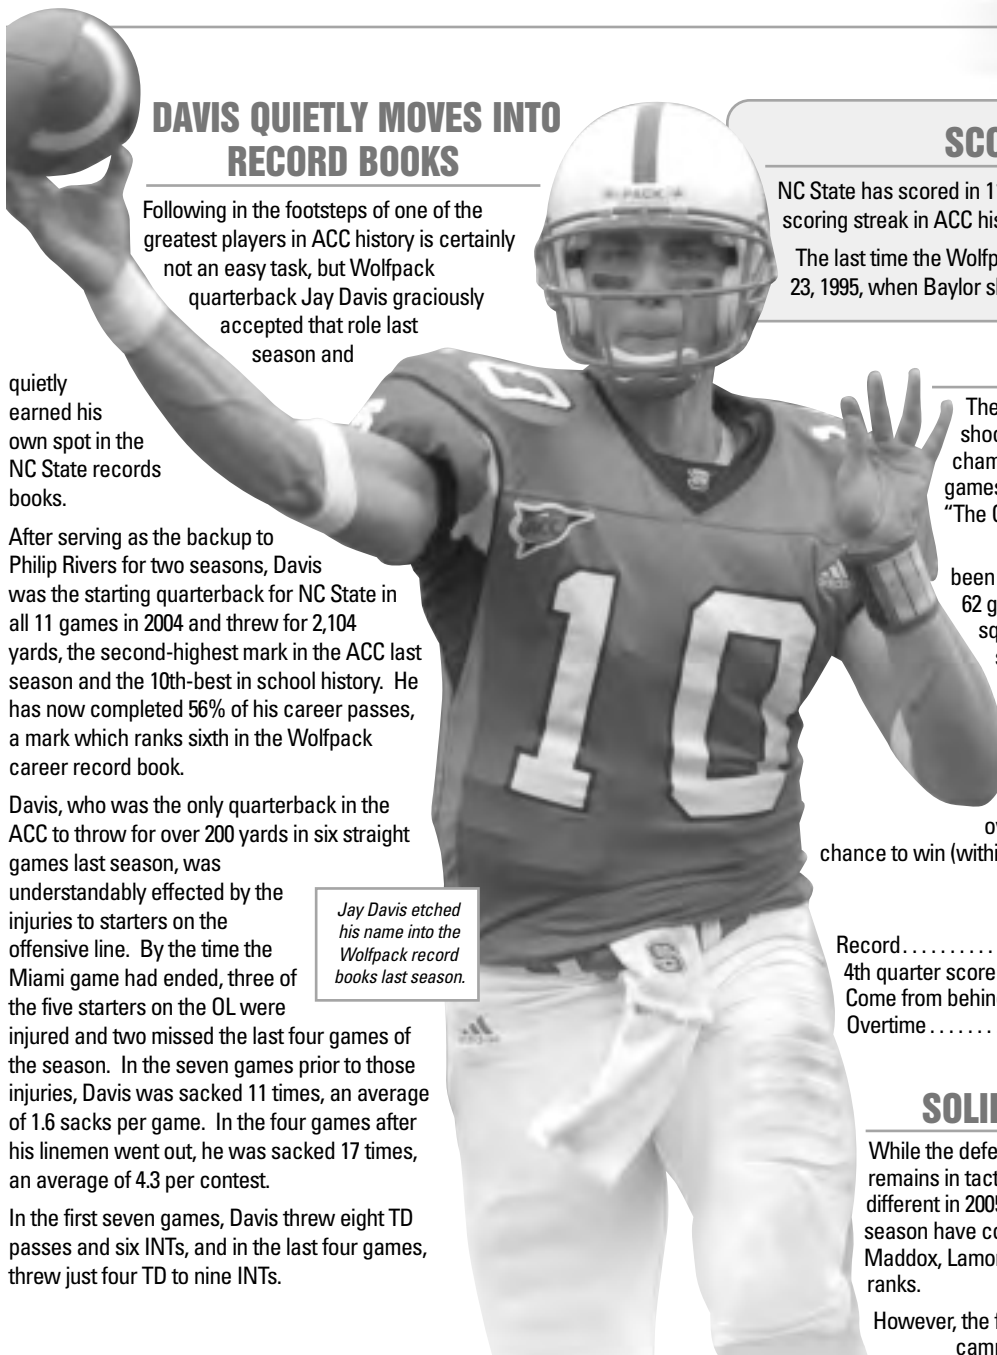

Love is in the air around Wolfpack football, or at least it has been for eight NC State players. That is the number of current members of the squad who have tied the knot.

The offensive line boasts the most married members in its ranks, as James Newby, Dwayne Herndon, Leroy Harris and Luke Lathan are all married. Newby and Harris are both expecting their first child, while Herndon has a son. Lathan is the newlywed in the bunch, as he just entered the state of matrimony in June.

Wide receivers Brian Clark and Fred Span are also old married folk, with Span's second son being born last season.

Other newlyweds on the squad include defensive backs Marcus Hudson and Miguel Scott, who got married this spring.

Leroy and Christina Harris are one of eight married couples on the Wolfpack squad.

DEFENSIVE FRONT TABBED AS NATION'S BEST

The 2005 Wolfpack defensive line has been picked as the nation's best by a couple of preseason college football publications, including The Sporting News and Lindy's. That unit, which returns eight of its 10 letterwinners from last season, tallied 50 tackles for loss and 16 sacks a year ago en route to leading NC State to the national total defense title.

Both returning ends, Mario Williams and Manny Lawson, earned All-ACC honors last season, with Williams earning a first-team nod and Lawson gaining second-team accolades. That pair is on the preseason watch list for the Bednarik Award, while Williams is also on the Lombardi and Nagurski preseason list.

John McCargo and Tank Tyler started at the tackle spots in 2004, with McCargo being the unsung hero of the unit. Demario Pressley, who was the only true freshman to start a game on defense last season, should battle for a starting

GOOD GOLLY, OLLIE

Junior middle linebacker Ollie Hoyte racked up the tackles last season, leading the team in stops three times and tallying five double-figure tackle totals. The Tampa, Fla., native tallied 93 stops for the season, 10 more than any other Wolfpack player, despite leaving the Florida State contest early in the first quarter with a knee injury and playing just two snaps against East Carolina.

Hoyte's 14.5 tackles for loss ranked among the leaders in the ACC last season and was the ninth-best mark in school history. He tallied five tackles for loss against third-ranked Miami, the second-highest total ever by a Wolfpack player.

T.J. IS OK

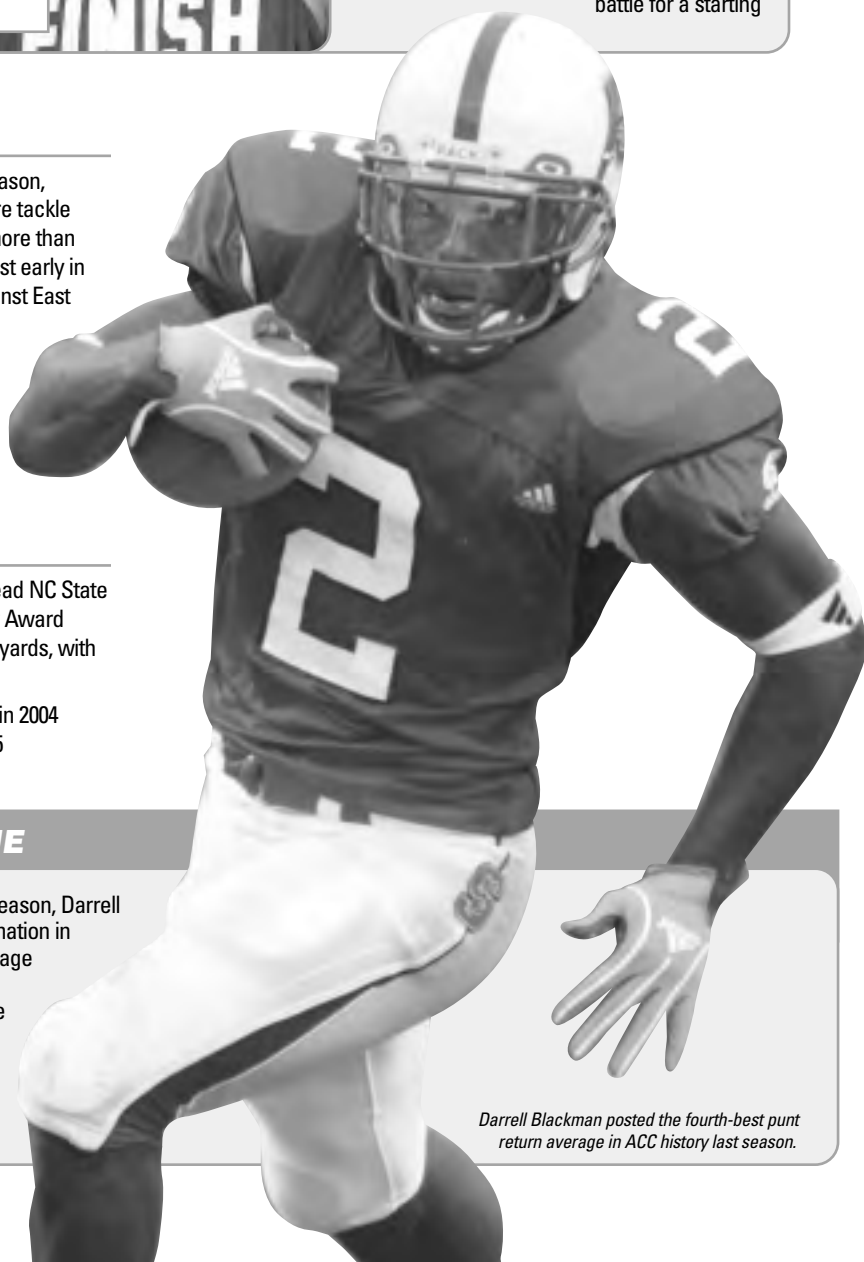

Last season, tight end T.J. Williams became the first tight end to lead NC State in receiving in 20 years. Williams, a nominee for the 2005 Mackey Award given to the nation's top tight end, pulled down 31 catches for 382 yards, with 19 of those receptions converting for first downs.

Williams is not only known as a receiver - his 580 snaps of action in 2004 ranked as the sixth-highest total on the team and he also tallied 15 knockdown blocks.

BLACKMAN LEADS LEAGUE

Although he didn't return a punt until the eighth game of the season, Darrell Blackman ended up leading the ACC and ranking third in the nation in punt returns last season with a 17.83 yard average. That average ranked third in school history and was the best mark ever by Wolfpack freshman. It also marked the highest average in the ACC since 1974 and was the fourth-best in league history.

In the last four games, the rookie runner tallied 12 punt returns for 214 yards, including one for 87 yards and the Pack's lone touchdown versus Florida

Darrell Blackman posted the fourth-best punt return average in ACC history last season.

DERANEY DOES IT ALL

The Wolfpack special teams have a "John of All Trades," as John Deraney has handled placekicks, kickoffs and punts.

Junior kicker/punter John Deraney was one of just 10 kickers in Division I who handled all of the kicking duties for their respective teams last season and he could repeat that feat in 2005.

Deraney kicked the ball 163 times during his sophomore campaign - 60 punts, 52 kickoffs, 29 PATs, and 22 field goal attempts.

His 29 PATs tied as the ninth-best single-season mark in school history and his perfect mark on extra points was one of just nine in school history.

Over his two seasons, he is perfect on PATs, with his 34 kicks tying as the eighth-best mark in school history.

Deraney's 13 field goals made in 2004 ties as the eighth-best single-season mark ever at NC State.

Nineteen of Deraney's 52 kickoffs last season resulted in touchbacks. For his career, 59 of 127 kickoffs have been touchbacks.

BLOCK ... THAT ... KICK!!!

NC State has blocked 49 kicks since the 1998 season began, including 32 punts, 13 field goals and four point-after-touchdown attempts. The Wolfpack set a school record in 2003 with 10 blocked kicks, including eight punts. Since Chuck Amato's first season at NC State (2000), the Wolfpack has blocked 35 kicks, the best mark in the nation.

Here's a look at NC State's blocked kicks in the last four+ seasons and the number of career kicks blocked by current Wolfpack players:

TRAMAIN EVENT

Senior halfback Tramain Hall has done it all for the Wolfpack during his two years of competition, tallying 1,881 all-purpose yards. Entering his senior year, he ranks in the top 15 in school history in career receptions (97), receiving yards (1,123) and touchdown receptions (10). His six 100-yard receiving games ties for fifth in school history, while his 377 yards of career punt returns is the eighth-best mark ever by a Wolfpack player.

Two seasons ago, Hall pulled down 69 receptions, a tally that has been bettered by only two other players in NC State history (Torry Holt and Jericho Cotchery).

TICKETS SOLD OUT:

For the fourth straight season, NC State sold out all of its season tickets in 2004. This year, a record number of over 37,000 tickets were gone by the middle of June.

Season ticket sales have increased each of the last five years at NC State and were up almost 13,000 this season from the 1999 season.

All single-game tickets have also been scooped up for each of the past two years, meaning there are no tickets left to sell for any of the Wolfpack's six home games in 2004.

The capacity of Carter-Finley Stadium has been increased to 55,600 with the addition of bleacher seats on the south endzone concourse.

Here's a look at the season ticket sales for the Wolfpack since 1999:

Year	Season Tickets Sold
2004	37,000+
2003	34,500
2002	31,500
2001	30,500
2000	24,425
1999	23,108

SUPER MARIO

The rumor just simply isn't true. Junior defensive end Mario Williams CANNOT leap tall buildings in a single bound. He is, however, pretty adept at hassling the opposition's quarterback and chasing down the ball carrier. So adept, in fact, that Blue Ribbon College Football has tabbed the Wolfpack star as its preseason National Defensive Player of the Year and named him to its preseason All-America team. Athlon has also placed him on its preseason All-America team.

The 6-7, 285 pound junior end is also on the preseason watch list for the Lombardi, Bednarik and Nagurski Awards after earning first-team All-ACC honors last season. He led the nation's top-ranked defense with 15 tackles for loss as a sophomore.

He leaps, he runs, he tackles! Those are among the reasons NC State's Mario Williams has been selected as the National Defensive Preseason Player of the Year by Blue Ribbon.

Head Coach

Chuck Amato

NC State '69

When Chuck Amato came home to his alma mater in January 2000, he brought together the two most important things in his life: his family and his school.

Family has always been the most important thing to the Wolfpack head coach, something you can see in his devotion to his wife, his twin daughters and his grandson. But that devotion also extends to his Wolfpack family, of which he has been a part for more than four decades.

His tie to NC State started with a family reunion of sorts: Amato followed his older brother, Rosario, from Easton, Pa., to play football for Earle Edwards. It developed as Amato helped the Wolfpack win ACC championships in two sports. It stayed with him as he worked to become one of the most respected assistant coaches in the country during his time at NC State, Arizona and Florida State.

In his years away from the school, Amato remained close to many friends and colleagues at NC State. And, despite the success of aiding in two national championships and numerous ACC titles, Amato's dream remained consistent: to return to the institution he loved.

So his devotion continues today as he works to make NC State football the best it has ever been. He's done that by bringing in talented players and accomplished assistants, and by spearheading the drive for massive improvements at Carter-Finley Stadium.

Since he first returned, the Wolfpack family has rallied behind him in record numbers. Season ticket sales have risen each of the last five years.

Wolfpackers have also lent their support for new construction projects throughout the athletic department. Some of the most impressive undertakings have been the Murphy Football Center, which opened last year, and the new press box and luxury suites, which will be open for the 2005 season.

Amato, 59, enjoys every aspect of being the head football coach at NC State University - developing strategy, competing fiercely, building relationships with young men, meeting with NC State alumni and fans - it's all part of what makes Chuck Amato so passionate about the job he waited almost three decades for.

In five seasons back in Raleigh, Amato has led the Wolfpack to unprecedented successes. He coached the first 11-win season in school history, and is only the fourth coach in ACC history to take his first four teams to bowl games. The 2002 Wolfpack finished the season with NC State's highest national ranking in a decade and his recruiting classes have gotten stronger and stronger each season.

Amato was named head coach of the Wolfpack on January 6, 2000, and his passion for his job was evident immediately. At the press conference announcing his hiring, in front of hundreds of members of the Wolfpack family who came out to greet him, he shed tears of joy and remembrance as he recalled some of the people, like Edwards, who meant so much to him at NC State. He donned the red and white just two days after watching his Florida State team win a national championship, but immediately turned his sights on building the same type of championship attitude for the Wolfpack.

His first step towards building a championship program was to bring in a coaching staff with more than two centuries of combined collegiate coaching experience. He and his staff then set their sights on getting the team in shape. In the spring of 2000 Amato demanded that his players hit the field leaner and meaner, and the Wolfpack players responded by collectively losing more than 700 pounds. Now, after five years, that winning attitude is as ingrained in the players as Amato's love for his alma mater.

Before his first season began, Amato had shirts made for his team that had a single word emblazoned across the front: "FINISH." His team learned the importance of that simple word, and the Pack took three games into overtime and played eight games that were decided by eight points or less. His squad finished the season accomplishing something that few had predicted before the season began: a postseason bowl bid. Amato and company weren't satisfied just with a trip to the bowl; they wanted to win. Even though a victory didn't look likely when the score stood at 24-0 in Minnesota's favor late in the first half of the Micronpc.com Bowl, the Pack did what it had done all year, FINISHING with a 38-30 win.

In addition to compiling an 8-4 record, the 2000 Wolfpack squad posted numbers that rank among the school's all-time top 10 in 13 single-season team categories. Amato's first team set school records for pass completions (242), pass attempts (455) and fewest turnovers (20) in a season. NC State's 3,218 passing yards in 2000 was the second-best mark in the 109 seasons of Wolfpack football. In addition, linebacker Levar

Fisher and wide receiver Koren Robinson earned All-America notice. Fisher also was voted the ACC's Defensive Player of the Year, while Robinson was the first-round draft pick (ninth pick overall) the following spring of the NFL's Seattle Seahawks. Quarterback Philip Rivers was named the conference's Rookie of the Year.

In 2001, the Amato had a new motto for his team: "FULL SPEED AHEAD." In his second season at the helm, the Pack won seven regular-season games, including a historic 34-28 victory over Florida State in Tallahassee, the Seminoles' first-ever ACC loss at home. The 2001 Wolfpack broke the 2000 team's record for pass completions with 248, and did so in 70 fewer attempts. Not surprisingly, the Pack also shattered the school mark for completion percentage at 64.4 percent, easily eclipsing the 1992 team's mark of 61.4 percent.

In addition, the Pack committed just 13 turnovers in 11 regular-season games, bettering the 2000 team's record by seven. Defensively, the 2001 Wolfpack allowed nearly 200 fewer total yards than the '01 team, including 539 fewer yards on the ground. The Wolfpack got stronger as the season progressed, winning four of its last five regular-season games and scoring nearly 32 points per game in those five contests.

In 2002, the Pack reached unprecedented heights. The Wolfpack started the season 9-0 and was ranked as high as No. 8 in the country. The Pack finished its season strong with a nationally televised win over Notre Dame in the Gator Bowl in front of a sea of red fans that filled three-fourths of Alltel Stadium in Jacksonville, Fla. In addition to posting a school-record 11 wins, the Pack set school records for pass completions, first downs, total yards, points and kickoff returns. Five members of his 2002 squad won first-team All-ACC honors - more than double the previous two years' combined total - and the Wolfpack boasted the ACC Rookie of the Year (T.A. McLendon) for the second time in Amato's three years with the program.

The team's motto, "STEP UP," certainly was taken to heart. Amato's team overcame injuries and bounced back from a three-game losing streak to become just the first team in the ACC to defeat Florida State three times since the Seminoles joined the league in 1991. The Wolfpack's defense, which ranked first in the ACC in total defense, did not allow an offensive touchdown in wins against Florida State and Notre Dame to finish the season.

For 2003, Amato and his staff urged their squad to play with enthusiasm and fierceness with the new motto: "CUT IT LOOSE." Although hit hard by injuries even before the season began, the Wolfpack made ACC history in 2003, as Rivers set conference records in almost every passing and total offense category and set an NCAA Division I mark for starts by a quarterback (51). The team set school records for total offense, first downs, passing attempts, completions and yards, completion percentage, and touchdowns and points scored. Rivers was named the ACC Player of the Year, joining teammates Jerricho Cotchery, Sean Locklear and Andre Maddox on the all-conference first team. In April, Rivers became NC State's highest NFL draft pick in more than 40 years.

In 2004, the Wolfpack did not have a winning season for the first time in Amato's tenure, finishing with a 5-6 record while facing one of the most demanding schedules in school history. But NC State's motto of DISCIPLINE helped lead the Wolfpack defense to a No. 1 national ranking in total defense, holding opponents to 221.4 yards per game, the lowest total since the ACC was formed.

After the season, Amato continued to attract some of the nation's top high school talent, and he recruited three new assistant coaches to help return the program to its previous winning ways: offensive coordinator Marc Trestman, defensive coordinator Steve Dunlap and wide receivers coach Dwayne Dixon, all of whom have extensive coaching experience on both the professional and college level.

Amato, a native of Easton, Pa., first came to Raleigh as an underweight linebacker, following in his older brother Rosario's footsteps. The younger Amato was a three-year letter winner in football and wrestling for the Wolfpack. On the gridiron, he played on the 1965 team that won an ACC co-championship and was the captain of the famed 1967 "White Shoes defense." On the mats, he posted two undefeated seasons, earning an ACC heavy weight title in 1966 and another in the 191 weight class in 1968.

He earned his B.S. in mathematics education from NC State in 1969 and his master's degree in education in 1973.

Following his graduation, Amato spent two years as an assistant coach at his prep alma mater, Easton Area High School. In 1971, he began a nine-year stint as an assistant with the Wolfpack, working under Al Michaels, Lou Holtz and Bo Rein. He served as a graduate assistant in 1971 and 1972, coached the defensive secondary from 1973-75, and was the defensive coordinator and linebacker coach from 1976-79.

He coached four All-ACC defensive backs for the Wolfpack during that stretch and also coached current Pittsburgh Steelers head coach Bill Cowher.

Amato came home to NC State as the 32nd head coach in program history after spending 18 years at Florida State, 14 as assistant head coach. He directed the Seminole defensive line for 14 years and spent four seasons running the linebacking corps. He has been a part of 11 ACC championships, one as a player at NC State (1965), two as an assistant coach for the Wolfpack (1973, 1979), and eight consecutive at Florida State (1992, 1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999).

FSU was ranked in the top four of the final Associated Press poll each of Amato's last 13 years with the program, and the Seminole defense ranked in the top 10 nationally in rushing defense seven of his last eight years. The Seminoles ranked in the top 20 in all four defensive categories (total defense, rushing defense, passing efficiency defense and scoring defense) in 1999.

Amato coached three consensus All-Americans at FSU: defensive end Reinard Wilson, linebacker Sam Cowart and defensive end Andre Wadsworth. After he took over the direction of the linebacking corps in 1996, he directed one two-time Butkus Award semifinalist (Daryl Bush), and four NFL draft picks. He also produced some of the nation's top defensive linemen while leading that unit.

Prior to joining the Florida State staff, Amato spent two seasons at the University of Arizona (1980-81), where he served as linebackers coach.

Amato's devotion to NC State can only be topped by his devotion to his family. He's been married to his wife, Peggy, a native of Raleigh, for 30 years. The couple has twin daughters, LuGina and Selena, both graduates of Florida State. LuGina lives in Raleigh, while Selena, who is married to former Florida State football player Jarad Moon, lives in Florida. Amato's first grandson, Sterling Moon, joined the family in May 2004.

Coaching Support Staff

CAROLYN STUART

Administrative Assistant to the Head Coach

Carolyn Stuart boasts the longest tenure of any member of the Wolfpack football staff. Stuart has been with the Pack for 29 years, through 339 football games and over a dozen bowl appearances. Chuck Amato is the sixth head coach she has worked with.

In addition to serving as the administrative secretary for Amato, Stuart's responsibilities include helping develop and monitor the football budget, handling team and recruiting travel, helping coordinate bowl trips, and a myriad of other day-to-day responsibilities.

A native of Benson, N.C., Stuart worked in the school of agriculture and life sciences before joining the football office in 1976. She and her husband, Jimmy, have one son, Darren. Darren and his wife Joan have a daughter, Ashton (8), and a son, Adam (5).

JAMEY COLL

Senior Associate Director of Sports Medicine/Head Football Athletic Trainer

Jamey Coll is entering his 13th year as a member of the Wolfpack Athletic Training Staff and has served as the head athletic trainer for football since 1996.

During his tenure at NC State, Coll has also worked as the assistant athletic trainer for football, has worked in the Reynolds Athletic Training Room as the rehabilitation coordinator and at NC State Student Health Services as an athletic trainer. At the Student Health Center, Coll collaborated with a physical therapist to come up with treatment plans and rehabilitation protocols for patient care.

Coll came to NC State after serving as a graduate assistant athletic trainer at the University of Connecticut for two years, working as the assistant athletic trainer for football and the athletic trainer for ice hockey. In addition, he served as the athletic trainer for the Windham Orthopedic Surgical Group, working with physical therapists and orthopedic surgeons.

A native of Wrentham, Mass., Coll earned his athletic training degree from Salem State College in 1991 and went on to Connecticut, where he received his Master of Arts in exercise science in 1993.

Coll is certified with the National Athletic Trainers Association as an athletic trainer and is certified as a strength and conditioning specialist with the National Strength and Conditioning Association. Coll is married to the former Leah Havens Wallace of Raleigh, and has a daughter, Sydney Patricia (1).

EDDIE GARDNER

Head Football Equipment Manager

Eddie Gardner boasts one of the longest tenures in the entire Wolfpack football program, as he has been involved in some capacity since the late 1970s.

Gardner began working with the football team as a student trainer while pursuing an associate's degree in science at NC State. After graduating in 1980 with an associate's degree in science, he continued to work within the football program, assisting with equipment duties. Serving as the Assistant Equipment Manager from 1982-85, he was promoted to Head Equipment Manager in 1986 at the beginning of the Dick Sheridan era. While Gardner has served in his current role as equipment manager under the past three head coaches, he has worked for every coach since Bo Rein.

Gardner oversees the order and maintenance of all practice and game-day equipment and gear for the entire football program, including staff, coaches, student assistants and student athletes. In addition, he is responsible for travel plans for equipment and student assistants, as well as loading and preparing the equipment truck. Gardner is also in charge of setting up all fields and drills for practice and game day activities.

A native of Roseboro, N.C., Gardner is married to the former Betty Lucas.

CHAD JAMISON

Director of High School Relations

Chad Jamison rejoined the Wolfpack football program in the spring of 2005 as the Director of High School Relations. Jamison comes back to NC State after spending the 2004 season as a graduate assistant at East Carolina. Jamison will work closely with recruiting and the Pack's high school prospects.

In Jamison's first stint with NC State, he served as the offensive graduate assistant for three seasons (2001-03) and was a recruiting intern for a year (2000). Jamison worked closely with the Wolfpack's offensive unit and assisted with game preparation and scouting.

In the spring of 1999, Jamison served as a student assistant coach at his alma mater, Indiana University of Pennsylvania. He was also an assistant coach for Central Dauphin East High School in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Prior to getting back into football, Jamison served as a labor relations analyst in the Department of Environmental Protection for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

As a player, Jamison was a two-year letterwinner for IUP as a cornerback where he was coached by Frank Cignetti, father of Wolfpack tight ends coach/recruiting coordinator Curt Cignetti.

Jamison earned his bachelor's degree in human resource management in December of 1997 from IUP and his master's degree in industrial and labor relations from the university in Indiana, Pa. Jamison grew up in Delmont, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh.

JODY MOYLON

Head Academic Coordinator for Football

Entering her sixth season working with the Wolfpack football team, Jody Moylon serves as the Lead Academic Coordinator for Football. A two-time graduate of NC State, Moylon received a bachelor's of science degree in parks, recreation and tourism with a sports management concentration in 1997 before collecting her master's in PRT with a sports management concentration in 2001. While pursuing her master's, Moylon served as a Graduate Assistant in Academic Support for the football team.

Moylon oversees the complete academic process for all student-athletes on the NC State football roster, including counseling and advice, professional and career development, scheduling study hall, providing tutoring support and monitoring NCAA eligibility. In addition, Moylon works with each student-athlete's academic department advisor to help schedule classes and follow their process towards graduation.

Moylon is a native of Burlington, Mass.

JIM SHERRILL

Director of Technology

The NC State Athletic Department's Director of Technology, Jim Sherrill, plays a critical role in the day-to-day operations of the football program. A 1985 graduate of NC State with a bachelor's of science in radio, television and film, Sherrill's career with the Wolfpack began in 1994, when he began working as a video coordinator in the athletic department.

In July of 2003, Sherrill was promoted to his current position.

Sporting several behind-the-scenes duties, Sherrill oversees all sports video and computer needs. In addition, Sherrill also serves as the director of "The Chuck Amato Show," "The Herb Sendek Show" and "Inside Wolfpack Athletics with Lee Fowler." Recently, he has been working with all new athletic facilities to plan for and implement all telecommunications and computer services. Sherrill oversees a staff of 17, including several fulltime, graduate and student assistants.

Sherrill and his wife Kim have one son, David, also a graduate of NC State.

WIDE RECEIVER

6-2 • 195 • Senior^{RS}
Pompano Beach, Fla.
Ely HS

In 2004: Made a courageous comeback from ACL reconstruction, starting three contests and playing in nine ... Had just two catches in the last six games, nine of his 11 grabs for the season came in the first five contests ... Showed his prowess after making the catch when he scored on a 57-yarder in the overtime win over Wake Forest - a career long.

In 2003: Starting wide receiver before being sidelined by injury ... Broke his hand in the season opener, he did not dress for the Wake Forest game ... Came back and made a valiant effort to play at No. 3 Ohio State, but tore his ACL after catching a pass and missed the rest of the season ... Underwent surgery on October 9, he earned a medical redshirt ... Tied as the team's leading receiver in the season opener with a career-high 110 yards on seven grabs ... In for 46 snaps against Western Carolina ... Continued to rehabilitate during the spring, he was able to go through individual workouts and run pass routes but did not see any contact.

In 2002: The fourth-leading receiver on the Wolfpack squad with 37 catches, he led the team in receptions versus New Mexico and Texas Tech and tied for the team-lead with six versus Duke and four versus Florida State ... Was having one of his best career games in the win over the Seminoles, he had four catches in the first half before suffering fractured ribs ... Made key third-down catches on the final drives at Maryland and at Virginia ... Had a career-high 107 yards receiving versus Duke ... Saw limited action as a kickoff returner ... Underwent shoulder surgery in February and missed all of spring workouts.

In 2001: Posted the best reception average on the team for players with more than one catch (16.6 yds/rec.) during his freshman campaign ... Had his first career catch in the win over SMU and his first touchdown versus Duke ... Suffered a concussion versus Maryland and missed part of the second half ... Caught at least one catch in each of the last six games of the year, including the bowl game ... Set season highs of four catches for 88 yards against Virginia, while playing a season-high 42 snaps ... Had nine of his 12 catches in the last five games of the season.

Prep: Caught 48 passes for 1,098 yards and 18 touchdowns as a senior at Ely High School for Coach Steve Davis ... Played wide receiver and cornerback ... Earned first-team all-state accolades ... Selected first-team All-Broward County ... Voted All-American by Max Emfinger ... Preseason All-America selection by SuperPrep Magazine ... Guided team to Class 5A state semifinals ... Caught six passes for 222 yards against Deerfield Beach High School ... Returned three punts for touchdowns as a senior ... Selected to play in the Dade-Broward County and the Florida-California All-Star Games ... Recorded 45 receptions for 945 yards and 16 touchdowns as a junior ... Earned honorable mention all-state honors ... Majoring in PRTM with a program management emphasis ... Born 6/17/83.

Getting to Know Manny Lawson

Name: Emmanuel Elijah Lawson

If a movie were made about me, I'd want this actor to play me: Mike Epps (Day-After)

What I like most about playing for the Wolfpack: My teammates: they think they can sing and are always joking on one another.

When I first met Coach Amato, I thought: Where are those shades I heard so much about?

If I had to cook all my meals, I would survive on: Peanut butter and jelly, chocolate milk and "4 Nacho Cheese" Doritos

When I was a kid, I wanted to be a _____ when I grew up: An artist

Nobody knows how much I like to _____: Eat

My role model: Donald P. Lawson, my Pops

My most embarrassing moment was: Middle school, I was walking with the guys and didn't see this long overhead pole. I turned right around and ran right into it in front of everyone else getting off the buses, right in front of the girl I had a crush on.

In my CD player right now: Mix CD of slow jams

My favorite childhood toy: A gold robot, that my sister until this day tries to take from me.

If I had to give up all my possessions but one, I'd keep: Long Johns

If I could bring anything from my hometown to Raleigh, it would be: The country, too many roads in Raleigh to get lost on

Favorite Coach Amato Quote: "The best ability is dependability."

The best thing about the fans at NC State is: They're not fair weather fans, they support us through the good and bad

Person in history I would most like to meet: Michelangelo (Sistine Chapel)

The thing that would make my mother proudest would be: For her to see her two kids happy

The Reality Show I'd like to go on and why: Fear Factor - Just to show the world that there isn't enough money in the world for me to eat the things they eat and do the stunts they do like being chased by a dog.

Teammate that would be the first voted off the island and why: Mario Williams: He's too big to share a tent with and I couldn't stand to hear him talk ... I mean, whisper! LOL!

An interesting thing nobody knows about me is: I had two pinky fingers on one hand.

Getting to Know Chris Young

Nickname: Fumbles

The funniest nickname on the team is (and belongs to): Sponge Bob Square Pants - Pat Lowery

If a movie were made about me, I'd want this actor to play me: Bill Murray

What I like most about playing for the Wolfpack: How we dedicate ourselves for 2/3 of the year (winter workouts, spring ball, summer training, two-a-days) to get better, and then watching that dedication pay off during the season in the form of victories.

When I first met Coach Amato, I thought: "I don't think he knows my name."

If I had to cook all my meals, I would survive on: Anything that can be cooked on my charcoal grill

When I was a kid, I wanted to be a _____ when I grew up: Football player or construction worker

Nobody knows how much I like to _____: Cut down trees, and split the logs up for firewood

My role model: NCSU's finest nuclear engineers, my roommates Stephen Wolhers and David Young

My most embarrassing moment was: My freshman year against FSU, I ran a fake field goal attempt and not only fumbled the football, but had it picked up by FSU defensive end Michael Boulware, who proceeded to run it back for an FSU touchdown. In the upcoming NFL draft, ESPN decided to air my fumble as the feature highlight clip of Boulware's career. That was pretty embarrassing, but despite the fumble we still beat FSU, 17-7 in route to our New Year's Day appearance in the Gator Bowl.

In my CD player right now: "O Brother Where Art Thou" soundtrack

My favorite childhood toy: My hammer and tool belt

If I had to give up all my possessions but one, I'd keep: My King James Bible

If I could bring anything from my hometown to Raleigh, it would be: Since Raleigh is my hometown, the only thing I wanted to bring to NC State was my sister, Kelly

Favorite Coach Amato Quote: "Men, tomorrow is Labor Day, and we are going to labor."

The best thing about the fans at NC State is: Loyalty, very loud and give a great home field advantage

Person in history I would most like to meet: King David

The thing that would make my mother proudest would be: Living each day as unto the Lord.

The Reality Show I'd like to go on and why: "A Day in the Life of William Lee" In order to win, one would have to withstand a constant barrage of NASCAR trivia (mostly concerning Bill Elliot), country music facts and impersonations, and a complete breakdown of the Chicago Cubs baseball organization. If one was to survive this for 24 hours, they would be declared the winner. I think I have an outside shot at winning.

Teammate that would be the first voted off the island and why: John Ritcher, because he can't fish and I'd wind up having to share my catch with him.

An interesting thing nobody knows about me is: Sometimes on Saturday mornings, I love to watch the FOX News Channel for hours.

This is Wolfpack

Football

Game Day at Carter Finley

THE WALK

It might be a new tradition, but the Walk of Champions has quickly become one of the fans' and players' favorite parts of Wolfpack football. A couple of hours before kickoff, fans begin lining the walkways in front of the Murphy Football Center, forming a path for the team to walk through. When the team buses arrive, the coaches and players walk across the front of the Murphy Center to the lockerroom entrance on the opposite side of the building.

The band and cheerleaders are there, but the majority of the excitement comes from the thousands of Wolfpack fans who line the narrow path, cram between trees and jam the plaza in front of the building to cheer on the Pack before the team gets dressed for the game.

THE ENTRANCE

The Wolfpack enters the playing field through the long tunnel that runs underneath the south endzone into the Murphy Center. As the scoreboard plays the highlight video and the music echoes through the stadium, the team runs out to the sounds of cannons, the blaze of fireworks and a screen of smoke.

THE FANS

NC State has sold out its season tickets each of Chuck Amato's seasons with the Wolfpack and the NC State fans come out in droves, rain or shine. The many parking lots around Carter-Finley Stadium begin to fill up hours before kickoff, with fans unloading their coolers, grills, picnic tables and every kind of food imaginable.

The World's Greatest Fans

Although the names on the Wolfpack roster change from year to year, there's one thing about NC State football that has been consistent through the decades: the dedication of the fans in red and white. Wolfpack fans have gained a reputation for being some of the most loyal and most vocal in the nation, and that reputation is well deserved.

Attendance has risen steadily each of the past five years, with season tickets selling out each of those seasons. In 2004, a new record average of 55,600 fans per game saw the Wolfpack play, breaking the previous year's record of 53,274 fans.

Bowl games are almost like home games for the Wolfpack. In 2002, NC State fans bought a record number of tickets to the Toyota Gator Bowl and filled the stadium with red. Approximately 15,000 folks turned out for this year's spring game, and at least that number usually attends the annual Meet the Pack Day in August.

They're loud. They're loyal. They are even a little crazy. But whatever adjective you use to describe them, the Wolfpack fans play a vital role in the team's success.

PACK

NFL

In the past decade, 40 NC State players have been drafted into the National Football League and countless others have signed free agent contracts. Additionally, many former Wolfpack players have joined teams in NFL-Europe, the Canadian Football League and the Arena League. Scouts from numerous NFL teams attend every home game and are frequent visitors at Wolfpack practices.

In addition to his success on the field with the St. Louis Rams, Torry Holt also served as an analyst for ESPN's 2005 NFL draft coverage. Here, he is seen with draft expert Mel Kiper.

NC State has boasted a top-10 draft pick three of the past six years.

“In the 19 years since I’ve been coaching in the NFL, NC State pro prospects have a quality reputation. You know you’re going to get a player who is a solid character off the field and a good worker on the field.”

Bill Cowher, Pittsburgh Steelers
Head Coach and NC State alumnus

Strength & Conditioning

PACK POWER

The Wolfpack coaching staff firmly believes that a solid strength and conditioning program is one of the cornerstones of a championship football program. Strength & Conditioning coach Pat Meyer's philosophy is to make strength and conditioning a 12-month job for the Wolfpack football team, but to make sure the players enjoy it.

The Wolfpack has the advantage of training in what could be the largest strength and conditioning facility in the country devoted solely to football. The Wolfpack trains in a 14,000+ square-foot facility that overlooks the playing field. The bright, open area spans the entire width of the Murphy Center, and includes over 15 tons of weights, plus other machines and equipment. In addition to a 70-yard running track, the facility includes 12 self-contained power stations, 12 olympic platforms and over 30 pieces of "selecterized" equipment, all resting on a spring-loaded floor.

The facility also houses a 5,000-square-foot agility and quickness room and a juice bar to provide nourishment while the players are working out.

The Wolfpack staff has made strength and conditioning as much a competition as what goes on on the playing field. In August, the Pack has hosted a "Day of Champions," at the RBC Center. This competition gives the NC State players a chance to compete in strength and agility drills in front of thousands of fans. In April, just before final exams, the team concludes workouts with a "Superstars Competition," which pits the offense versus the defense in competitions such as wrestling, tug-of-war and keg tossing.

Academic Support

NC State University is committed to providing its student-athletes with all the tools necessary to achieve excellence on the fields of competition and in the classroom. The Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes (ASPSA) is evidence of this commitment.

Under the auspices of NC State's Division of Undergraduate Studies, the ASPSA complements the university's substantial faculty advising and academic resources, paying special attention to the unique demands and expectations of the Division I student-athlete.

The degree in which Wolfpack student-athletes are involved in ASPSA varies according to individual needs. Generally, all freshmen are expected to be heavily involved, as the transition from high school to university life can be a difficult one.

The purpose of ASPSA is to assist the student-athlete in a move toward academic independence, but the services of the organization are available upon request at any point during a student-athlete's career. Students who have proven themselves to be self-reliant are allowed more optional use of the program with only moderate oversight.

ASPSA facilities are located in the Case Athletic Center, The Murphy Center and the Weisiger Brown Building. The centers contain modern study areas and computer centers.

Phil Moses oversees the program and seven full-time academic coordinators on the ASPSA staff. Two full-time academic coordinators work with the football squad and have offices in the Murphy Center.

Opportunities Provided by the Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes

- Tutorial Services
- Academic Counseling
- Study and Computer Skills Development
- Graduation Planning
- Career Counseling
- Leadership Development
- Time Management
- Academic Information Resource
- Referral Service

Services Provided by ASPSA

Orientation Courses: A training course in college survival and success meets 75 minutes each week to cover topics such as adjustment to college, time management, stress management, study skills, test-taking skills, cultural diversity, university policies and other topics.

Academic Advising: The ASPSA's academic coordinators complement the university's departmental advising by providing information regarding policies, procedures, course selection, selection of majors and minors, and NCAA and NC State guidelines for adequate academic progress.

Counseling: Individual work is done with students with specific concerns such as decision-making, adjustment to college, communications, relationships, test anxiety and study skills. Appropriate referrals are made to other campus resources as necessary.

Monitoring of Academic Progress: The academic progress of NC State student-athletes is closely and carefully monitored. Monitoring forms are used to gather classroom performance information from professors and this information is shared with the student-athlete and the coaches.

Tutorials: Unlimited personal tutorial services are provided and available for each and every class. These appointments begin at the start of every semester and continue regularly through the end of final exams. Supplemental instructional programs and a departmental learning center are also available.

ASPSA Facts

- The NC State Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes has a budget of over $1 million.
- The ASPSA employs 13 full-time staff members in addition to director Phil Moses. Two academic coordinators work with the football squad and have their offices in the Murphy Center.
- The football program has access to over 80 tutors with various specialties, who are employed by the ASPSA to ensure the commitment to individualized education.

Sean Locklear and Philip Rivers graduated in December of 2003, competed in the Gator Bowl two weeks later and then were drafted by the NFL the next April.

Chris Colmer earned his degree prior to his senior season. He was drafted by the Tampa Bay Bucs this spring.

Jody Moylon is the Head Academic Advisor for football.

Teammates Rickey Fowler, Lamont Reid and Troy Graham before their May 2005 graduation.

First-Year College Program

NC State offers incoming freshmen a year of study and guidance before choosing an academic major. Over 750 students are enrolled in the first-year college program, which helps the student become involved with the academic, social and cultural life at NC State. The First-Year College includes a career development program designed to help students make an informed choice of a major.

Wolfpack players can attend study hall at the Murphy Center or at the Case Athletic Center.

Student-Athlete Development

A Commitment to Success Off the Field

Making an ImPACK in the Community

ImPACK's outreach program places special emphasis on touching the lives of Wake County's thousands of school children. NC State student-athletes are encouraged to provide tutoring and mentoring activities for children. This program seeks to avoid one-time events such as assemblies, and focuses instead on building long-standing personal relationships between the children and the student-athletes. Also, visits are made to children at local hospitals.

During the 2004-2005 school year, Wolfpack student-athletes and staff reached thousands of people in the triangle area through ImPACK's outreach efforts, including working with community programs such as Read-a-Thons, Habitat for Humanity, non-profit organization fundraisers, mentoring and other outreach programs.

The athletic department also sponsored a Habitat for Humanity home, with Wolfpack student-athletes from all sports participating in the construction.

P.A.C.K Pack Athletes Challenging Kids

The P.A.C.K. program is the Department of Athletics Speakers' Bureau. NC State student-athletes, using the platform of athletics, address young people in schools, group homes, hospitals, etc. about current issues they face.

ImPACK Program

ImPACK is a "Life Skills" program designed to support the total development of NC State student-athletes. The mission of ImPACK is to provide an unmatched comprehensive life skills program for student-athletes that encourages their growth in decision making, enhances their interpersonal relationships, and enables them to make meaningful contributions to their communities. The ImPACK program consists of five major components:

THE ACADEMIC COMMITMENT

The primary goal is to educate student-athletes so they not only obtain a degree, but also develop an appreciation for learning in addition to the knowledge and skills that will carry them through life. The following topics are primarily covered in the first-year orientation course taught by academic coordinators in the Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes (ASPSA).

THE ATHLETIC COMMITMENT

NC State pledges that all student-athletes will be provided with quality facilities, equipment, coaching and support services so each student can achieve his or her maximum potential both academically and athletically. Sensitivity to the dignity of the student-athlete is vital to the success of the department.

THE CAREER DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT

The goal of this component is to explore and develop career options and to prepare student-athletes for an exciting long-term career. The goal is to aid our student-athletes in securing their first professional job in their chosen career after graduation. Services in this area include: Career counseling, job fair, interviewing workshops, networking, resume writing, internships, summer employment, etc.

THE PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT

The ImPACK program focuses on the individual as a whole person, and provides a system of balanced "life learning" that addresses the needs of the individual before and after graduation. The areas that this commitment addresses include: Social Development, Personal Health, Fundamental Values, Emotional Health, Leadership Training/Citizenship.

THE SERVICE COMMITMENT

The ImPACK program supports the philosophy that student-athletes gain "leadership through service." Through their efforts, they make a positive contribution in an extensive community outreach program as well as develop a commitment to life-long service. Student-athletes are participating in the following programs: School programs, community outreach, and P.A.C.K.

Director of Student-Athlete Development Tonya Washington presents linebacker Stephen Tulloch with a "Top-Six" award, honoring his community service.

Career Network for Student-Athletes

The Career Network for NC State student-athletes is a partnership between the ImPACK program and a variety of businesses. These businesses provide summer employment opportunities, internships and postgraduate career options.

Graduating student-athletes are featured each year in the NC State Corporate Playbook, a publication that features photos and resumes of NC State student-athletes. It is put together by the NC State Student-Athlete Development/Community Relations department and is sent to over 1,500 businesses, government agencies and corporations, providing the NC State student-athlete with major exposure.

In an effort to further prepare NC State student-athletes for the real world, the Student-Athlete Development/Community Relations department will launch a new Career Development website this year that will assist Wolfpack student-athletes with job placement for both internships and postgraduate employment.

The Corporate Playbook is sent to over 1,500 potential employers each year

Sports Medicine

NC State's sports medicine facility for football is truly among the finest in the nation. The 6,000-square-foot facility, located on the first level of the Murphy Football Center, includes more than $600,000 in gadgetry, including an aquatic area with three pools: a four-foot-deep hot/cold plunge pool; a three-lane, 24-feet long, multi-depth lap pool; and a treadmill pool by Hydroworks, with underwater cameras that video the athletes' movements and gait patterns via TV screen.

NC State uses machinery by Biodex for physical medicine and rehabilitation. The most appreciated piece of equipment, the Multi-Joint 3 System Pro, allows the sports medicine staff to observe an injured joint or muscle in a controlled range of motion with real-time biofeedback. This allows the athlete to work the injured area in a monitored and safe environment. The machine includes attachments that allow for the observation of the ankle, knee, shoulder, elbow, wrist and hip.

The sports medicine facility features a state-of-the-art hydrotherapy area that includes a Hydroworks pool. This pool boasts a hydraulic system that allows injured athletes to enter the pool at ground level and be lowered via remote control on an underwater treadmill. Because the pool can be used at depths from zero to six feet, athletic trainers can adjust how much pressure is applied to the injured structure. Using water as a method of therapy helps to unload the body weight and allows the athlete to work with less stress on the injured portion of the body. Video aids the staff in evaluating the biomechanics of the athlete's body movement, and helps the athletic trainers access the injury and get the athlete back on the field in a much quicker fashion than in the past.

Only the finest personnel in the profession work with NC State student-athletes. Jamey Coll, the head football athletic trainer, is entering his 13th season as a member of the Wolfpack sports medicine staff, and has served as the head trainer for Wolfpack football since 1996. Coll is certified with the National Athletic Trainers

Association as an athletic trainer and is certified as a strength and conditioning specialist with the National Strength and Conditioning Association.

Each year, Coll assembles a staff of medical professionals that includes five doctors, one full-time assistant athletic trainer, two graduate assistants and eight student assistants who aid in the care-taking of Wolfpack football players, a number of whom are also ATC certified. NC State promises only the best medical attention is given to its student-athletes.

Dr. John Rubino, the head team physician, has worked with the Wolfpack program since 1990. A graduate of the University of Connecticut medical school, Rubino currently practices with Raleigh Medical Group.

Drs. David Fajgenbaum and Mike Fajgenbaum have served as the orthopaedic consultants to Wolfpack Football since 1989. The brothers, who are both graduates of Tulane Medical School, practice at the Bone and Joint Surgery Clinic in Raleigh. Mike did his Orthopaedic Residency at the University of Florida.

The Wendell H. Murphy Football Center

When it comes to football facilities, there is none in the country as fine as the Wendell H. Murphy Center. The 103,254-square-foot facility houses every aspect of Wolfpack football, from sports medicine, to equipment, to strength training, to academics. As functional as it is aesthetically pleasing, the Murphy Center is definitely the Wolfpack's den.

The facility is named for Wendell H. Murphy, a lifelong supporter of both athletic and academic initiatives at NC State. A member of the NC State Board of Trustees, Murphy was awarded the prestigious Watauga Medal, the school's highest award given for outstanding and distinguished service, in 1999.

The 103,254-square-foot Wendell H. Murphy Football Center is the largest operations facility in the country devoted solely to football. Visitors enter the building through Gant Plaza, where the 28' "Wolfpack Turf" statue and fountain stands proudly.

Wendell and Linda Murphy celebrated the official opening of the center in May of 2003 with an assortment of children and grandchildren.

The Wolfpack lockerroom contains 114 custom wood lockers.

Visitors to the Murphy Center can experience the rich heritage of Wolfpack Football in the Finley Hall of Champions. This multimedia complex highlights NC State's football tradition with photos, artifacts and interactive exhibits. Fans can watch video highlights in the Woolard Theater and younger Wolfpackers can have fun in the Junior Wolfpack Zone.

In addition to a professionally-equipped studio, the Video Services area on the fourth floor also includes editing suites.

The third floor of the Murphy Center houses a large dining room and a players' lounge that overlooks Wayne Day Family Field. The lounge boasts couches, pool tables, ping-pong tables, wide-screen TVs and video games for the Wolfpack players to enjoy during breaks.

The Strength Training Facility runs the entire length of the building and covers 15,000 square-feet. The facility houses a mat room, a track, a juice bar and over 15 tons of weights.

The Sports Medicine Facility covers 6,000 square feet and includes an aquatics area with three pools.

A large team meeting room and meeting rooms for each position are on the third floor.

Carter-Finley Stadium

For the past 38 years, Carter-Finley Stadium has earned a reputation as one of the most exciting venues in college football, mainly due to the dedication of Wolfpack fans. Now, the facility has been renovated to match the excellence of the people who fill it and is rapidly becoming known as one of the finest football venues in the nation for both its atmosphere and its facilities.

The south endzone is the home of the 103,254 square-foot Murphy Center, which is unequalled in its design for the training and preparation of athletes. The student-athletes' academic, physical training and sports medicine needs are met under one roof, providing the ideal setting for coaching, recruiting and celebrating NC State's gridiron heritage.

The Wolfpack squad practices just a stone's throw away at the Dail Practice Complex. This area covers seven acres and boasts three full fields, a training room, restrooms and a tower where the head coach is frequently found surveying his squad.

In front of the Murphy Center, the south endzone now boasts 5,864 permanent seats, with the top 11 rows featuring 1,900 premium seats with chairbacks. The "Superscreen" scoreboard enhances the Carter-Finley atmosphere, as fans are able to enjoy replays, highlights and other videos on the scoreboard's 24' x 32' video screen. A state-of-the-art sound system ensures that even the folks on the last row get the most out of their game-day experience.

This season, the stadium will have a completely different look, as Vaughn Towers opens for fans and the media. Located on the west side, the four-level facility boasts 117,000 square feet and holds 51 luxury suites, 955 club seats and luxurious quarters for the media covering NC State games.

Plans are also underway to renovate the north endzone, where the old Finley Fieldhouse is located.

ABOUT CARTER-FINLEY STADIUM/WAYNE DAY FAMILY FIELD

NAME:

Named for Harry and "Nick" Carter, textile executives and NC State alumni, and the late Raleigh philanthropist A.E. Finley.

CAPACITY:

57,500

ORIGINAL COST:

$3.7 million. Half the funds were raised from alumni and friends, and the balance was borrowed.

ORIGINAL CONSTRUCTION:

Plans for a new stadium were first drawn in the early 1960s. The land was donated by the N.C. Department of Agriculture, and ground was broken in 1964. A pond was drained and excavated to form the depression where the playing field now stands. More than 300,000 cubic yards of soil were removed during grading; 70,000 bags of cement were churned with sandstone to make 25,000 tons of concrete; and 1,350 tons of steel were used in construction.

WAYNE T. DAY FAMILY FIELD:

Named for Wolfpack alumnus Wayne T. Day in 2002.

Surface: Eleven-year old turf; 419 Tiftway Hybrid Bermuda grass, Sub-surface drainage at eight inches per hour with a two percent crown; grass is mowed year-round at 3/4 inch length. In October, the field is over-seeded with perennial rye grass to maintain its lush appearance.

WENDELL H. MURPHY FOOTBALL CENTER

Named for Wolfpack alumnus Wendell H. Murphy in 2003. Four-level, 103,000+ square-foot operations center housing all of the support services and offices for the football program.

VAUGHN TOWERS

A four-story facility that will boasts 112 working press seats, booths for radio and television broadcasts, coaching booths, and operations areas. The facility will also house 955 club seats, 51 luxury suites and a chancellor's suite.

LIGHTING:

Incandescent light fixtures with 672 fixtures of 1,500 watts each. Approximately 1 million watts located on eight standards, which provide 190-200 foot candle power.

LONGEST NC STATE WINNING STREAK:

16 games, spanning from 1972 until 1975.

FIRST GAME:

Dedicated on October 8, 1966 in a 22-31 loss to South Carolina, in front of 35,200 spectators.

FIRST NC STATE TOUCHDOWN:

Billy Morrow, 32-yard interception return vs. South Carolina on Oct. 8, 1966.

FIRST TOUCHDOWN:

Jimmy Killen of South Carolina, 10-yard pass from Ben Garnto, Oct. 8, 1966.

FIRST NC STATE VICTORY:

49-21 over Virginia, October 29, 1966.

Vaughn Towers

The Wolfpack's newest stadium addition, Vaughn Towers, dominates the skyline around Carter-Finley Stadium, as it rises above the west stands. The 117,000 square-foot structure, which stretches from endzone to endzone, includes four levels, 51 private luxury suites and 955 club seats, as well as a University Suite for the Chancellor. The state-of-the-art facility also includes accommodations for the media, with 112 press seats.

Wayne Day Family Field

The playing field at Carter-Finley Stadium was named Wayne Day Family Field in the spring of 2003 after the Day family pledged $5 million to the Wolfpack Club Goal Line Drive Campaign. The Day family's pledge is one of the largest gifts to the athletics program in the history of NC State University.

Day, president and CEO of John J. Kirlin, Inc., is a 1965 graduate of NC State University. A native of Roxboro, Day graduated from NC State with a degree in Chemical Engineering. Before joining John J. Kirlin Inc. in 1969, he spent two years with the US Army Corps of Engineers, followed by two years at Honeywell. Day is a member of the World Presidents Association and the Washington Building Congress. He is actively involved in the rebuilding of the Pentagon, following the terrorist attack of September 11, 2001.

Day and his wife Mary Grace have two children and one grandson.

The ACC

The Tradition

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 53rd year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 94 national championships, including 49 in women's competition and 45 in men's. In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 120 times in men's competition and 60 times in women's action.

The conference had an immediate impact on the national college football scene in the fall of 1953 when the University of Maryland captured the first of what would eventually be five national football titles for the ACC. Clemson laid claim to the league's second national title in 1981 while Georgia Tech followed suit in 1990. Florida State pocketed national titles No. 4 and 5 in 1993 and 1999, respectively.

In addition, Miami has laid claim to five national gridiron titles over the past 22 seasons. Four of the Hurricanes' five national titles (1983, 1987, 1989, 2001) were unanimous with both the sportswriters and coaches polls in agreement, while in 1991 Miami (AP) shared the national title with Washington (coaches).

The 12 institutions that take to the field this fall under the ACC banner have produced 497 first or second team gridiron All-Americans and 70 first-team academic All-Americans. ACC schools have had 2,125 players selected in the annual professional football draft, including 191 first round selections.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC over the years has proved itself to be among the elite in Division I-A football. The ACC is the nation's winningest bowl conference as the 12 current league teams are a combined 132-115-5 (.533) in post-season play.

Following its 3-3 bowl mark in 2004, the ACC is the only conference to post a .500-or-better record in post-season play in each of the past four seasons. Since 2001, the ACC is 16-9 in post-season play and has the best bowl winning percentage (.640) among all BCS conferences.

In 2002, the ACC set an NCAA record when seven of its nine teams (78%) received bowl bids.

For the first time in league history, the ACC surpassed the 3.5 million mark in total attendance in 2004 and for the fifth-straight year, the league set new single season records in attendance. In 66 home games during the 2004 season, ACC teams drew 3,693,032 fans, breaking the existing record of 3,006,841 set during the 2003 season.

A History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C., with seven charter members - Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest - drawing up the conference by-laws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference's annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, N.C., where a set of bylaws was adopted and the name became officially the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Suggestions

from fans for the name of the new conference appeared in the region's newspapers prior to the meeting in Raleigh. Some of the names suggested were: Dixie, Mid South, Mid Atlantic, East Coast, Seaboard, Colonial, Tobacco, Blue-Gray, Piedmont, Southern Seven and the Shoreline.

Duke's Eddie Cameron recommended that the name of the conference be the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the motion was passed unanimously. The meeting concluded with each member institution assessed $200.00 to pay for conference expenses.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted the University of Virginia as the league's eighth member. The first, and only, withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971, when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when the Georgia Institute of Technology was admitted. The Atlanta school had withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference in January of 1964.

The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State University.

The conference expanded to 11 members on July 1, 2004, with the addition of the University of Miami and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. On October 17, 2003, Boston College accepted an invitation to become the league's 12th member starting July 1, 2005.

Players and coaches representing the Atlantic Coast Conference schools gather every summer to meet with the media. Tramain Hall and Lamont Reid represented the Wolfpack last summer.

Media Spotlight

The Media Spotlight

NC State's football program and players receive national, regional and local media exposure on almost a daily basis. In order to help each student-athlete project the best possible image, annual media training is provided to the football team. Individual media training is also available to any player who is interested.

Top Media Market

NC State University is located in one of the top 30 media markets in the nation. Several regional newspapers have a beat writer assigned to cover Pack football, while television stations from five networks (ABC, CBS, FOX, NBC, WB) as well as a 24-hour news channel are located in the triangle.

Television Exposure

Eight of the Wolfpack's games were televised last season, with NC State being broadcast on ESPN, ABC, espn2 and JP Sports. Over the past seven seasons, 63 NC State football games have been televised.

GoPack.com

A constant and reliable source of information for NC State fans is Gopack.com, the official web site of the NC State Athletics Department. By pooling together the resources of Wolfpack Sports Marketing, the NC State Media Relations Department and the Official College Sports Network, Gopack.com has become one of the most popular school sites in the entire nation.

Not only does Gopack.com provide in-depth articles on football, it is also the only consistent Internet source for news on all of the school's varsity sports squads. Gopack.com also provides real audio broadcasts of football, men's and women's basketball, baseball and the coaches radio shows. And for those who can't listen, live in game statistics and box scores are just one keystroke away.

Wolfpack Video

Weekly and yearly highlight films are just a small portion of the services offered by Video Coordinator Jim Sherrill, his assistants Hud Jordan and Mike Urban and a staff of eight camera operators. The Video department has spacious accommodations in the Murphy Center, including two non-linear editing suites for production, a breakdown area for Coaches video needs, C/Ku band and Direct TV satellite distributions system, a Digital video, DVCAM, Betacam SP, VHS duplication center, a CD & DVD duplication system, a broadcast studio and control room, live satellite capabilities and a fiber optic link to the football practice fields.

Media Training

Each year, the entire team meets with nationally acclaimed media trainers to discuss interview techniques. Individual media training is also available upon request.

Raleigh, N.C.

POPULATION

Raleigh, the capital city of North Carolina, boasts a population of 237,000 residents. Almost 600,000 people live in Wake County, while over a million populate the area (Raleigh/Durham/Chapel Hill) that makes up the Triangle region.

DIVERSITY

One-third of Raleigh's population is made up of minorities.

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK

The Research Triangle Park is the largest planned research and development park in the United States. More than 50 companies and government agencies have dedicated research centers in computer science, biotechnology, telecommunications, medicine, environmental science, and the humanities and social sciences. The 7,000-acre site is the home of 136 organizations, and employs over 43,000 people.

Many cooperative research ventures take place between these companies and faculty members and laboratories at the University. As an NC State student and graduate, the benefits are all here for you.

GETTING AROUND

Raleigh-Durham International Airport is just 15 minutes from NC State, boasting 600 daily flights to more than 53 non-stop destinations. North Carolina also has the largest state-maintained highway system in the nation.

Three interstate highways intersect the Triangle area.

A COLLEGE TOWN

There are eight colleges and universities within Wake Counties borders. In addition to NC State, Raleigh is home to four other institutions of higher learning: Meredith College (women's college), Peace College (women's college), St. Augustine's College and Shaw University. NC Central University, UNC-Chapel Hill and Duke University are also located within 30 minutes of the NC State campus.

NC STATE UNIVERSITY - A CAMPUS OF ACHIEVERS

Since being founded March 7, 1887, NC State has established itself as a dynamic academic community. More than 29,000 students from all 50 states and 110 foreign countries join to form one of the nation's most outstanding universities.

North Carolina State University has emerged as a national leader in science, engineering and technology while keeping its roots deep in the North Carolina community through comprehensive extension outreach. A strong humanities program, a vibrant theater and one of the premier Colleges of Design round out the portrait of NC State.

NC State's beautiful campus hosts a great diversity of people, programs and excitement. Student-athletes select NC State for many reasons: strong academics, outstanding athletic opportunity, excellent reputation, career advantages, the prospering Raleigh/Triangle location and many social opportunities.

THE CAMPUS

NC State's campus is comprised of 2,110 acres, with the main campus located one mile west of downtown Raleigh, the state's capital and one of the finest cities in the nation. In fact, Money Magazine named Raleigh "The Best Place To Live In America," while BestJobsUSA.com has recently called Raleigh the No. 1 place to live and work in the nation.

The state's first veterinary school is located nearby on a 182-acre campus near Carter-Finley Stadium, home of Wolfpack Football. In addition, the future of NC State is forming around Centennial Campus. A unique venture between government, private corporations and NC State, Centennial Campus is a model of education in the new millennium. Over time, the master plan for the expansion of the Centennial will more than double the size of NC State.

The university's facilities are supplemented by 101,000 acres of research farms and forests across the state.

THE TOOLS FOR SUCCESS

NC State, acclaimed for its outstanding athletics program, is also known as one of the country's top research universities. It is ranked 7th among national research universities in non-federal funded research, 12th among national research universities in industry-funded research, and 30th nationally in total expenditures for research and development. NC State is ranked 1st in total research expenditures in the 16-campus University of North Carolina system, and 2nd in total state and local research funding among national research universities. NC State's expenditures for research and sponsored programs exceed $440 million.

The University is ranked 17th in the nation for launching start-up companies and has received more than 496 patents for beneficial technologies developed by its world-class faculty. Students interact with and learn from industry, government and business partners every day at NC State's acclaimed Centennial Campus, which is a widely recognized model for how universities can construct academic partnerships with the private sector.

Never a Dull Moment

More than 300 student organizations on campus offer social, creative, recreational and academically oriented extracurricular opportunities.

Cultural and entertainment opportunities abound on campus. Over the past several years, NC State's campus has hosted three presidents, countless singing and musical groups, NBA exhibition games and many other events.

PRODUCING LEADERS

According to the General Officers Management Branch in Washington, D.C., NC State has produced more four-star generals than any other institution (other than West Point) in America with eight.

Four-star General Henry "Hugh" Shelton is the former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and four-star General

Maxwell Thurman led the U.S. forces in the 1989 invasion of Panama.

NC State alumni head more of the state's top 100 companies than graduates of any other institution in the state and the university ranks among the top 30 institutions in the nation for the number of graduates who serve as CEOs of Fortune 500 companies.

Living on Campus

The entire campus has 2,240 acres, 20 residence halls, and 295 apartments. The campus offers full student access to internet and e-mail from over 2800 computer stations. Most residence halls and off-campus housing have internet access.

FIRST-YEAR COLLEGE

NC State's First-Year College program offers new freshmen a year of study and guidance before choosing an academic major.

Over 750 students are served by the First-Year College.

First-Year College offers a comprehensive first-year experience with immersion into the academic, social and cultural life at NC State.

First-Year College includes a career development program designed to help students make an informed choice of a major.

At the same time, NC State is a tremendous asset to its home state, through partnerships that foster economic development and an extension network that reaches into each of North Carolina's 100 counties and the Cherokee Reservation. Being engaged with the real-life concerns of our state is part of NC State's land-grant mission, but in recent years it has been taken to a new plane. Every college at NC State now has an outreach function. You can find university faculty, staff and students working all across the state to achieve everything from better air quality to homeland security.

THE LIBRARIES

The University provides several extensive libraries containing over 3.1 million volumes of books, bound journals and federal publications and over 4.63 million microforms. D.H. Hill, the main library on campus, is ranked No. 27 in the nation and is on a network system in conjunction with UNC-Chapel Hill, NC Central University and Duke University. Combined, these resources are second in number to only The Library of Congress. Aside from D.H. Hill, many colleges maintain more specific library collections in their buildings.

STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES

In addition to the extensive support services offered through the ImpACK program and the office of Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes, NC State offers a number of services that are open to all students.

The Tutorial Center provides free tutoring in English, foreign languages, mathematics, chemistry, physics and other freshman and sophomore courses. NC State offers academic, personal and vocational counseling to students through the Counseling Center.

The African-American Cultural Center (AACC) serves as the hub of campus activity for African-American students, as well as the community "at large". The AACC provides a supportive environment for African-American students while serving as an educational facility that promotes awareness of the African presence throughout history.

In addition, the Peer Mentoring Program is a student peer-advisory program with first year African-American students paired with returning students. The primary objective of the program is to help students with their academic, emotional and social adjustments to college.

A WEALTH OF CHOICES

Students at NC State have many academic options through our degree-granting colleges. NC State offers 92 baccalaureate degree programs, as well as dual degree programs in which students can combine varied academic interests and increase their career options. There are over 5,000 course options available at NC State. Together with more than 55 research centers, institutes and laboratories, the colleges and schools at NC State support a broad spectrum of more than 1,200 scientific, technological and scholarly research endeavors.

The university is organized into 10 colleges, the School of Design, the Graduate School and the Division of Undergraduate Studies. All students will be assigned an advisor who will help the students select their courses

Getting Around

The Wolfline is NC State's University Transit System. Its six routes provide service to the Main Campus, Centennial Campus and the College of Veterinary Medicine, three Park & Ride lots and residential neighborhoods to the south of Main Campus. NC State is also served by several public transportation systems.

A GREAT PLACE TO CALL HOME

In addition to outstanding athletics and academics, NC State offers a chance to grow and learn through a wealth of social opportunities. More than 7,000 students live on campus, putting them within walking distance to classes, labs, the libraries, theaters, concerts, art galleries and sports facilities. In addition, every dormitory room comes with connections to the NC State campus computer network.

University Dining has something for everyone and can accommodate most special nutritional needs. NC State operates a nationally recognized dining program that offers convenience, quality and service. There are 15 locations around campus, ranging from all-you-can-eat Case Dining Hall to the Volve's Den to campus convenience stores and quick food like Chick-Fil-A and Taco Bell.

A 42,900-square-foot Student Health Center opened in 1999 to consolidate counseling, disability services, health education and medical services. Staffed with full-time physicians, nurses, pharmacy and other medical support staff, NC State's Student Health Services provides routine medical care to students on an outpatient basis. Regular student fees cover routine medical services.

MORE TO DO THAN YOU EVER IMAGINED

More than 300 extracurricular activities challenge students mentally, socially and physically and can help fill out a well-rounded college experience. Diverse clubs include special interests, while sororities and fraternities create the unity and fun of Greek life.

Activities include honor societies, a freshman fellows leadership program, a student-run newspaper and radio station, a yearbook and literary magazine, numerous pre-professional organizations, Student Government Association and musical activities. The Black Student Board, a branch of the Union Activities Board, sponsors a number of programs, including the Pan African Festival, a week-long event in the spring. Students may participate in all aspects of the student-run theater at Thompson Theater, while the Black

Prestigious Honors

NC State has a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest and most prestigious student honorary society. Less than 12 percent of the nation's universities have a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Wolfpack Athletics Makes the Grade

The Sporting News recently rated all of the athletic departments in the country, based on the following criteria:

"Do We Win?", "Do We Graduate?", "Do We Rock?", "Do We Play Fair?"

Based on those four categories, NC State was ranked ninth in the country, earning highest marks in the "Do We Rock?" and "Do We Graduate" categories.

CENTENNIAL CAMPUS

Centennial Campus is a vision for the future of NC State and universities worldwide. The 1,334-acre site, adjacent to NC State's main campus, is quickly emerging as the Research Triangle Area's fastest growing development. There is no other research park like it in the country. A "technopolis" of university, corporate and government research, development facilities and business incubators, Centennial Campus makes it part of its goal to contribute to the overall economic development of the State of North Carolina, as well as the educational development of researchers and students alike.

The campus is made up of "neighborhoods" which include laboratories, classrooms, office space, residential housing, plazas and courtyards. More than 70 government and corporate partners have already taken up residence, including the National Weather Service, Bayer Corporation, and the NASA Mars Mission Research Center. On any given day, you can find faculty, students, industry researchers and government scientists collaborating to produce scientific and technical innovations that will change the way we live and work.

In the past 10 years, over $340 million has been invested in facilities and infrastructure. By the time the campus is complete, that number will grow to over $2 billion in public and private investment. Construction has included 1.3 million square feet of space in 16 major building modules and 13 additional buildings are in the design and construction phases.

Located on the banks of beautiful Lake Raleigh, Centennial Campus consists of several multidisciplinary R&D neighborhoods, university, corporate and government facilities supported by advanced technology and infrastructure. Upon completion, the campus will weave together a community encompassing a hotel and conference center, a championship golf course, apartments and single family homes and a middle school.

Going Bowling

The holiday season has usually been bowl season for the Wolfpack since Chuck Amato took over the program in 2000. The NC State squad has travelled to sunny Florida four of the past five years, and Amato was just the fourth coach in ACC history and the second in NC State history to take each of his first four teams to a postseason bowl. In 2003, the Wolfpack defeated Kansas in the Tangerine Bowl. Following the 2002 season, State walloped Notre Dame, 28-6, in the Toyota Gator Bowl after competing in the 2001 Tangerine Bowl and the 2000 Micronpc.com Bowl.

Amato has coached in 28 bowl games during his career (four as the head coach at NC State, 18 as an assistant coach at Florida State and six as an assistant for the Wolfpack). He also competed in the Liberty Bowl as a player at NC State. In his career as a player and coach, Amato has posted a 22-4-2 record in bowl games.

Dr. James L. Oblinger Chancellor

In his introductory remarks to the campus, Chancellor James L. Oblinger said that when he came to NC State in 1986, "my goal was to be a part of an academic community that put its students and faculty first. To be part of an educational environment that didn't rest on its laurels to maintain the status quo, but one that was energized by possibility and invigorated by a desire to achieve. I found what I was looking for, and much more, here at NC State."

Now, with almost two decades of service to the university, Oblinger has gained an even greater affinity for NC State.

"Over the years, NC State has remained true to its mission of teaching, research and extension," he said. "That's part of why I stayed – the excellence I've seen in those areas. It's also personal. My wife, Diana, is an adjunct professor here, and our four sons all have attended NC State."

By the time he was named chancellor in October 2004, Oblinger had already made many friends throughout the state. He served as provost – essentially the number two administrator on campus and the highest ranking academic officer – after serving as dean of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, a position that required extensive travel in North Carolina.

"It's always gratifying when I'm out in the state and have someone tell me how much they appreciate what NC State has done for their community or their business, or their family," Oblinger said. "No matter where I go, there are people who are very appreciative of NC State."

Oblinger leads North Carolina's flagship university for science, engineering and technology, a university whose national reputation continues to grow stronger. NC State is ranked third in research funding among public universities without a medical school, sixth in technology strength of patents, seventh among national research universities in industry-funded research, 12th among national research universities in non-federal-funded research, 19th in total research funding among all universities, and 30th in total expenditures for research and development.

The university has nearly 7,000 full-time employees and 30,000 students. NC State offers bachelor's degrees in 100 fields of study, master's degrees in 106 fields and doctoral degrees in 59 fields, as well as a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree.

The chancellor's vision for NC State stresses "innovation in action" through scholarship for the 21st century, a culture of innovation, an inclusive and diverse campus community, and organizational capability and effectiveness. He also is a strong believer in the strength of the experience students receive at NC State.

"Yes, we are the largest institution in the state," he said. "We have the most students, but I like to think that our faculty and staff make us the most personal institution in the system. We've never lost sight of the individual. Where else would undergraduate students have access to the quality of faculty and program exposure that they have here?"

"But the student experience goes beyond the classrooms and laboratories. We look at the total student experience. It's the residence halls, the clubs and organizations, athletics and social component. It's also the richness and diversity of our campus. I know our students set high goals for themselves. We have to create an atmosphere that helps them reach those goals. I believe what we offer students is unique."

While the Oblingers keep a busy schedule – Diana is vice president of EDUCAUSE, a nonprofit organization that advances higher education by promoting the intelligent use of information technology – you'll frequently find them at athletic events.

"When it comes to athletics, we have great facilities," Oblinger said. "We dedicated new facilities for baseball and tennis just last year. We continue to renovate Carter-Finley Stadium for football. The basketball team plays in a nearly new facility – even Reynolds Coliseum, one of our oldest and most historic facilities, is being renovated."

"But the atmosphere at our games certainly doesn't stop with the quality of our facilities. Wolfpack fans from all walks of life – students, faculty, staff, alumni, families and friends – come together to cheer for our teams. Our games are great unifying events in the life of our university. It's part of what makes NC State a great university."

Lee Fowler

Director of Athletics

Since Lee Fowler was named Director of Athletics in September of 2000, a new era of athletic excellence has begun at NC State. Not only has the level of talent, expectations and success increased across the board for Wolfpack athletics, but Fowler's leadership and vision are revamping the landscape of NC State's athletic facilities.

In the 2003-04 academic year, NC State was one of only three schools to send its football team to a bowl game, and its men's and women's basketball teams and baseball squads to the NCAA Tournament. In 2004-05, 15 different NC State teams either competed in the postseason as a team or sent individuals to NCAA competition. Four teams compiled top-20 NCAA finishes.

The face of NC State athletics has changed dramatically during Fowler's brief tenure, with major facilities renovations and additions underway or in the planning stages. With the financial support of the Wolfpack Club, Fowler has spearheaded an unprecedented capital building program to renew and revitalize virtually every major athletics venue and support facility.

Under Fowler's direction, the Carter-Finley Stadium expansion has come to fruition. Two recently completed projects are the renovations on the Doak Field baseball complex and the Wolfpack's J.W. Isenhour Tennis Center. Renovations are well underway on the Weisiger-Brown Athletics Facility, Reynolds Coliseum and Case Athletic Center, as well as the construction of a short-game golf facility on campus for the Wolfpack men's and women's golf teams. Plans also are on the drawing boards for a new 18-hole golf course on the Centennial Campus and for upgrades to the Derr Track Complex, which will include a new softball stadium and upgrading the Pack's soccer facilities.

Known as a "hands-on" director, the 53-year-old Fowler has also seen NC State's programs enjoy success in the fields of competition. Coach Chuck Amato's football squad has played in four bowl games in five years, while the men's basketball team, under coach Herb Sendek, has earned NCAA Tournament invitations each of the past four seasons after an absence of 11 years. Women's basketball and baseball, as well as men's and women's golf have also made multiple NCAA appearances during Fowler's tenure. The men's and women's cross country squads earned top-10 finishes twice each in the past four years and even the Wolfpack cheerleading squad has won a national championship since Fowler came to Raleigh.

Fowler's approach to being the athletics director has been to incorporate all aspects of collegiate athletics into a unified focus. In addition to fostering each sport's focus on gaining top-25 national recognition, he has increased sport opportunities and expansion, encouraged teamwork within the university and support of all academic endeavors for student-athletes. Fowler has also been involved in increasing football ticket sales, which have shown phenomenal growth since 1999, with a sellout of all season-ticket inventory for the past five seasons. Since moving to the RBC Center in 1999, men's basketball has ranked in the nation's top 20 for attendance every season. Striving to exceed, and not just to meet, the requirements of Title IX is the approach that Fowler has followed, increasing scholarships so that all sports are now fully funded to the NCAA maximum per team.

He has made it a priority to create effective partnerships with NC State

Chancellor James Oblinger, the school's executive officers, the entire administration and faculty, student, and staff units of the university. Those partnerships have fostered a spirit of unity that is vital to the joint missions of the university and NC State athletics.

NC State is one of the leaders in the number of ACC postgraduate scholarship awards, and student-athletes continue to achieve graduation rates and overall grade-point averages comparable to the general student body.

In 2002, Fowler served as the chair of the prestigious NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee. He served as that group's spokesman throughout the 2002 season, and was named Time.com's Person of the Week in March of 2002. Fowler served on the committee from 1997-2002, also chairing the subcommittee for television and acting as chair of the NCAA Basketball Issues Committee.

Fowler, who boasts more than three decades of experience in collegiate athletics as a player, coach and administrator, came to the Wolfpack program after serving as the Director of Athletics at Middle Tennessee State University from 1994-2000. At Middle Tennessee State, Fowler led the Blue Raiders' move from the 1-AA level to Division 1-A in football, and negotiated MTSU's acceptance and move from the Ohio Valley Conference to the Sun Belt Conference. His program won the Sun Belt Conference's All-Sports Trophy for the best all-around sports program each of his last five years after MTSU won it only once in the previous 50 years.

A 1974 graduate of Vanderbilt, Fowler upgraded the MTSU football program through a capital campaign and increased football season-ticket sales by 600% during his tenure. Affirmative action numbers also increased by 300% at Middle Tennessee State with the addition of personnel and three women's sports programs.

Prior to his appointment at MTSU, Fowler served as Associate Athletic Director and Director of the Tiger Clubs at the University of Memphis from 1986-94. At Memphis, he increased fund-raising totals from $634,000 in 1985 to a record total of $3,059,000 in 1993, the highest level in school history before or since. The number of top-level donors to the Memphis program more than doubled during his stint.

Fowler served as an assistant coach for the Memphis men's basketball team from 1979-86. From 1975-79, he served as an assistant coach at his alma mater, Vanderbilt University.

As a student-athlete, Fowler was a starter and top reserve on the Commodores' 1974 Southeastern Conference championship team, the second in Vanderbilt's history. The squad posted an overall record of 59-21 during his playing career, at the time the best three-year record in school history.

Fowler earned his bachelor of arts degree from Vanderbilt in 1974 and earned his master of science degree from the University of Memphis in 1986.

A native of Columbia, Tenn., Fowler is married to the former Carol Murray of St. Clair Shores, Michigan. The couple has three daughters, Ashley, Kristin Leigh and Carlee. Ashley, who married Trevor Giles in June 2004, earned a master's degree from MTSU and is currently working as a sales representative for GlaxoSmith/Kline. Kristin is a junior at NC State and plans to compete on the Wolfpack volleyball squad, while Carlee is a junior at Broughton High School, where she plays basketball, volleyball and the guitar.

2004 Game Reviews

GAME 1

NC State 42, Richmond 0

Sept. 4, 2004 • Carter-Finley Stadium • Raleigh, N.C.

Jay Davis got his first completion on his first play and then settled in and played like a veteran. Davis threw two touchdown passes in his first career start, leading NC State past Division I-AA Richmond 42-0 in the season opener. The Wolfpack blocked a punt for a TD and had two interceptions in a dominating performance, despite playing without star tailback T.A. McLendon and rover Andre Maddox, the leading returning tackler a year ago, who both sat out with strained hamstrings.

A plethora of players made big plays for NC State. Trammie Hall and Brian Clark each caught scoring passes. John Deraney kicked two field goals, was 4-4 on PATs and averaged 50.3 yards on his three punts in his first game punting collegiately. Troy Graham blocked a punt for the Wolfpack and Marcus Hudson recovered it for the touchdown. Hudson also came up with one of NC State's two interceptions for the day, joining J.J. Jones in that category.

Seventeen Wolfpack players saw their first career action, including freshmen tailbacks Darrell Blackman and Bobby Washington, who combined to rush 22 times for 114 yards.

The Spiders managed only 167 total yards and advanced past midfield only three times.

Davis looked sharp completing six of his first seven passes, including an 11-yarder to Richard Washington on fourth-and-3 on the second possession. Later in the first quarter, he threw a 14-yard pass to John Ritcher on third-and-7, then capped the drive with a 17-yard scoring toss to Hall.

Davis' second TD pass was a beauty. He lofted a perfect spiral toward the right sideline, hitting Clark in the corner of the end zone.

Redshirt freshman Marcus Stone took over the signal calling duties in the second half and threw for 61 more yards on 8-of-10 passing.

NC State earned its first shutout victory since a 34-0 win over East Tennessee State on August 31, 2002. The Wolfpack extended its streak of season-opening victories to eight straight (5-0 under Chuck Amato) and improved to 18-2 against non-conference foes under Amato.

GAME 2

*Ohio State 22, NC State 14

Sept. 18, 2004 • Carter-Finley Stadium • Raleigh, N.C.

A strong Wolfpack defense allowed just 137 yards of total offense and Ohio State was able to convert on just two of its 16 third-down conversions, but the Buckeye's Mike Nugent kicked five field goals and the Pack turned it over five times to fall 14-22 to ninth-ranked Ohio State.

Jay Davis threw three interceptions, including one in the final two minutes of the first half that led to Ohio State's only touchdown. Trammie Hall muffed a punt and T.A. McLendon fumbled on the second play of the third quarter to give the Buckeyes another scoring chance.

The Wolfpack was called twice for pass interference and had another penalty for running into OSU's punter. Davis threw an 26-yard touchdown pass to Brian Clark with 1:28 left, but the Buckeyes recovered the onside kick and ran out the clock.

The biggest miscues for the Wolfpack were sandwiched around halftime. After Nugent's 30-yard field goal made it 6-0 with 2:33 left in the second quarter, Davis dropped back on third-and-10 and underthrew Richard Washington near the sideline, with Donte Whitner there for the interception. He ran it back 24 yards to NC State's 3, and Ross powered in on the first play for a 13-point lead.

On the opening possession of the second half, McLendon bobbled a pitch, and Marcus Green recovered for Ohio State at the 16. Three plays netted a single yard, and Nugent kicked his third field goal for a 16-0 lead.

NC State then finally got on the board, with McLendon capping the 80-yard drive by scampering into the end zone from the 11. He finished the day with 94 rushing yards.

But another penalty, this one a 15-yarder for excessive celebration after McLendon's TD, gave the Buckeyes great field position. They only needed to move 28 yards in seven plays to set up a 46-yard field goal by Nugent, and he added a 47-yarder early in the fourth quarter.

NC State, which entered the game leading the nation in pass defense, pass efficiency defense and total defense, held its opponent to under 100 passing yards for the second game in a row.

The Wolfpack defense held the Buckeyes to 137 yards of total offense and 11 first downs - four of which were a result of NC State penalties. NC State tied school records for both penalties and penalty yards.

GAME 3

NC State 17, Virginia Tech 16

September 25, 2004 • Lane Stadium • Blacksburg, Va.

The Wolfpack sack attack sealed the victory for NC State against Virginia Tech, as a tenacious defense sacked Virginia Tech QB Bryan Randall 10 times and held the Hokies to 192 total yards. Hokie kicker Brandon Pace missed a 33-yard field goal attempt in the first quarter and a 43-yarder as time expired to give the Pack a one-point victory over the eventual ACC Champions.

John Deraney got the scoring started with a 53-yard field goal, the third-longest in school history. Tech answered with a four-yard pass for a score and a 23-yard Pace FG before T.A. McLendon, who finished with 93 yards, to tie the game 10-10 at the half.

With the score still tied in the third quarter, Tech punter Vinnie Burns fumbled a snap that NC State's Troy Graham recovered at the Hokies five. Three plays later, Marcus Stone rushed for one-yard TD, the first of his career, before Pace connected from 32 and 37 yards in the fourth to bring the Hokies within one before he missed the game winner.

Manny Lawson led the way for the Wolfpack defense, recording three sacks and breaking up a pass. Overall, Tech finished with just 192 total yards, including a measly 36 on the ground. At one point midway through the third quarter, the Hokies had just one yard of offense for the entire game.

NC State quarterbacks Jay Davis and Marcus Stone combined for just 78 yards passing. In the first quarter Davis was picked off in the end zone, ending a Wolfpack drive. The next series, he was replaced by Stone, who promptly fumbled a handoff on the NC State 35 that set up the Hokies' first score.

The NC State defense held its third straight opponent to under 200 yards of total offense. The last time the Wolfpack put together such a streak was during the 1965 season when NC State held Virginia to 195 yards of total offense, Duke 198 and Florida State to 160.

Stone scored his first career touchdown, a 1-yard run in the third quarter. Stone was the QB on both of NC State's touchdown drives, and both drives were without starting offensive tackles Chris Colmer and Derek Morris.

GAME 4

NC State 27, Wake Forest 21 (OT)
October 2, 2004 • Carter-Finley Stadium • Raleigh, NC.

T.A. McLendon helped the Pack erase a 14-point deficit by running for an 8-yard touchdown in overtime, giving NC State a 27-21 victory over Wake Forest. After Matt Wisnosky missed a 34-yard field goal in the extra period for the Demon Deacons, McLendon ran four straight plays up the middle, scoring on an eight-yard rush to win the game.

McLendon finished with 139 yards on the ground and two TDs. The Wolfpack seemed to be out of it at the half, with its highly-touted defense giving up 180 yards to that point - nearly 20 more than its average through three games. A one-yard touchdown by Micah Andrews and Marcus McGruder's 22-yard interception return gave Wake Forest its two-TD lead.

But after three quarters, the Demon Deacons still were stuck on 180 yards, held to three consecutive three-and-outs. Meanwhile, NC State finally found some offense behind quarterback Jay Davis.

Davis played a brilliant final 30 minutes throwing a 57-yard touchdown pass to Sterling Hicks to make it 14-7 barely 90 seconds into the third quarter, then added a 58-yard pass to Tramain Hall on the next possession to set up McLendon's 3-yard score to tie the game. Late in the third, Bobby Washington capped a 66-yard drive with the first touchdown of his college career, and NC State led 21-14.

The Demon Deacons started the fourth quarter with an 80-yard drive and Andrews bulled in from the one for his second TD, making it 21-21.

Behind Davis and McLendon, the Wolfpack moved all the way to the Wake Forest 10. Davis' pass for Hall was high on third down, and John Deraney pushed a 27-yard field goal to the right with less than three minutes left.

In overtime, the Deacons couldn't get a first down and were forced to rely on Wisnosky's leg, but he banged his kick off the left upright to give the edge to NC State. McLendon made it pay off with his eight-yard run.

Hicks' 57-yard touchdown reception and Hall's 58-yard grab were both career highs.

GAME 5

North Carolina 30, ^{NR}NC State 24
October 9, 2004 • Kenan Stadium • Chapel Hill, N.C.

NC State's game against archrival North Carolina ended with controversy, as an official signaled a touchdown, but the back judge ruled the ball dead at the half-foot line, as T.A. McLendon tried to give the Wolfpack a win with six seconds left. The Tar Heels hung on to beat NC State 30-24.

After one referee clearly signaled McLendon had scored on second down, a quick huddle by the officials left the Wolfpack a yard short. They had one more chance, but McLendon's dive over the pile was stopped at the line of scrimmage, and he fumbled on the play. Khalif Mitchell recovered for UNC.

Darian Durant threw three touchdown passes and Connor Barth kicked three field goals for North Carolina (3-3, 2-2 ACC). Barth's final kick from 25 yards made it 30-24 and set up the controversial finish.

The Wolfpack (3-2, 2-1) drove from its own 18 in the final 4:20 to have their last chance, and they converted a fourth-and-6 along the way. Jay Davis completed an 8-yard pass to Brian Clark to give the Wolfpack first-and-goal at the 6, and McLendon moved it to the 3 before State called its final timeout.

McLendon finished with 117 yards rushing and Davis was 22-for-28 for 273 yards as the Wolfpack outgained the Tar Heels 577-356.

Still, a couple of turnovers earlier in the second half helped seal NC State's fate. The Pack went up 13-9 on the opening drive of the third quarter on John Deraney's 26-yard field goal, then drove 48 yards to the Tar Heels' 24 on its next possession. On first down, fourth-string tailback Reggie Davis fumbled, and linebacker Larry Edwards recovered for North Carolina.

Then, with the Wolfpack trailing 20-16, Davis lobbed a screen toward McLendon, but the ball was batted up in the air by Melik Brown. Edwards leaped to grab it, and he raced 54 yards to N.C. State's 3.

On the next play, Durant found Jon Hamlett open in the back of the end zone, giving the Tar Heels a 27-16 lead.

NC State's offense recorded season highs of 577 total yards and 30 first downs. The Wolfpack finished with 304 yards rushing on the day, the most for a NC State team since rushing for 327 yards against Maryland in 1994.

GAME 6

NC State 13, Maryland 3
October 16, 2004 • Byrd Stadium • College Park, Md.

NC State yielded only five first downs and 24 yards passing, while quarterback Jay Davis provided enough offense to help the Wolfpack end a four-game skid against Maryland with a 13-3 victory.

The Wolfpack permitted only 91 yards of offense, 31 after the Terrapins' first drive.

The Pack's third-ranked defense held the Terrapins scoreless in the first three quarters, while State got two scores from John Deraney (32 and 49-yard FGs) and Reggie Davis scored on a one-yard TD run.

In the fourth quarter, four plays after the Wolfpack's Dovonte Edwards fumbled on a punt return, Maryland's Nick Novak kicked a 40-yard field goal with 10:07 remaining to make it 13-3 and ruin NC State's bid for its first road shutout since 1977.

Davis went 13-for-30 for 208 yards, including 7-for-13 for 108 yards on third down, after starting running back T.A. McLendon injured his hamstring on the opening series and did not return.

Joel Statham went 6-for-11 for 18 yards before being replaced by true freshman Jordan Steffy in the third quarter for the second consecutive week. Steffy completed one of seven passes for six yards. Maryland gained 61 yards and made four first downs on its first possession, but had 53 yards in total offense and remained stuck on four first downs by the time coach Ralph Friedgen called upon Steffy with the Terrapins trailing 13-0.

GAME 7

⁴⁹Miami 45, NC State 31
October 23, 2004 • Carter-Finley Stadium
Raleigh, N.C.

Wolfpack quarterback Jay Davis threw four touchdown passes for NC State, but once again turnovers spelled doom for NC State, which turned the ball over four times.

Miami's Brock Berlin tied a school record with five touchdown passes and Devin Hester returned the opening kickoff 100 yards for another score, helping No. 4 Miami hold off NC State 45-31.

Miami used two dominating drives just after halftime to take a 38-17 lead and cruised from there, thanks mostly to Berlin. Two of his scoring tosses went to Roscoe Parrish, including a 27-yarder early in the second quarter on the first play after NC State's Bobby Washington fumbled on a kickoff return. Sinorice Moss, Quadtrine Hill and Lance Leggett caught the other touchdown passes.

Miami piled up 416 yards on a NC State that had been allowing only about 204 a game.

The Wolfpack's first turnover came as the Wolfpack were trailing 14-10 and driving. On third-and-6 from Miami's 34, Davis lofted a pass into double coverage, and Anthony Reddick made a diving interception at the 13.

Then, after NC State had great field position following a blocked punt, McLendon burst through the secondary on his way to the goal line. He got just inside the 10 before he fumbled, and the ball rolled through the end zone for a touchback.

Davis also gave up the ball as he was sacked by Kareem Brown late in the first half, and Brown returned it all the way to the NC State 18. But after an incompletion by Berlin, Jon Peattie hooked a 36-yard field goal, leaving the Hurricanes with a 28-17 lead.

With Manny Lawson's blocked punt in the in the first quarter, the junior moved into third place in school history with six career blocked kicks and ranks second in school history with six career blocked punts.

GAME 8

Clemson 26, NC State 20
October 30, 2004 • Memorial Stadium • Clemson, S.C.

Clemson forced six turnovers and made one last defensive stand in the waning moments to beat NC State, 26-20. The Wolfpack drove the ball to the Clemson 11 with eight seconds to go. But on fourth-and-10, Jay Davis threw his fifth interception of the game as the clock ran out.

NC State outgained Clemson 381-267. But mistakes doomed the Wolfpack, which came into the game ranked 110th out of 117 teams in turnover margin.

Eric Coleman returned one of Davis' picks 20 yards for a score. Justin Miller also had two interceptions for Clemson, including one in the end zone with 3 seconds left in the first half.

Davis hit freshman receiver John Dunlap for touchdown passes of 33 and 23 yards on the same drive called back for illegal formation penalties.

Davis was 24-of-45 for 255 yards for the Wolfpack, while freshman Darrell Blackman ran 11 times for 90 yards, filling in for T.A. McLendon, who left the game in the first half with a bruised shoulder after carrying the ball 12 times for 31 yards. The Pack was also without its leading receiver for much of the game, after Richard Washington left in the first half with a sprained knee.

NC State's offensive line was without three starters for the entire game, as center Jed Paulsen has been out since the North Carolina game, tackle Derek Morris and guard/center Leroy Harris both were injured last week in the Miami game. Luke Lathan (center) and Jon Holt (tackle) made their first career starts, while James Newby (guard) started his fifth game of the season.

John Deraney made both his field goals for NC State, while running back Reggie Davis scored both touchdowns for the Wolfpack - one on a 10-yard run and the other on a 5-yard catch.

While Jay Davis became the first NC State quarterback to throw five interceptions in a game since Terry Harvey did against Clemson in 1995, Davis extended his ACC-leading streak of 200-yard passing games to five.

With Clemson's interception on the last play of the game, four of NC State's six ACC games this season have come down to the final play: missed field goal by Virginia Tech, NC State's overtime touchdown against Wake Forest and the fumble by NC State on North Carolina's one-yard line.

GAME 9

Georgia Tech 24, NC State 14
November 6, 2004 • Carter-Finley Stadium
Raleigh, N.C.

The Wolfpack lost its fourth straight game, falling to visiting Georgia Tech, 14-24, as turnovers and penalties once again led to opponent success. NC State quarterback Jay Davis was 22-for-38 for 234 yards and three interceptions, a week after he was picked off five times in a loss to Clemson. Injury-prone tailback T.A. McLendon made it through the entire game but was held to 50 yards on 18 carries.

The Wolfpack certainly had its chances. John Deraney missed three field goals, including from 52 yards with about 3 minutes left that would have tied it. Also, Dovonte Edwards' 57-yard interception return for a touchdown was wiped out by a holding penalty on defensive end Manny Lawson.

One highlight for the Pack was on a Yellow Jacket turnover. With the score tied at 7-all following a 20-yard scoring romp by McLendon and a Reggie Ball 10-yard TD throw, Marcus Hudson intercepted the GT signal caller and ran it back 60 yards for a score.

But Ball bounced back in the final quarter. A 26-yard field goal by Travis Bell brought Georgia Tech within 14-10, and Reuben Houston had his second interception on NC State's first play of the ensuing drive.

NC State held Georgia Tech to 91 passing yards, the fifth opponent the Wolfpack had held to under 100 yards passing this season. And as it has in every other game this season, NC State earned more yards of total offense than the Yellow Jackets.

The Wolfpack's three interceptions were the most by NC State in a game since picking off three against Kansas in the Tangerine Bowl in 2003 and Dovonte Edwards became the first NC State player to make two interceptions in a game since Rod Johnson had two picks against Notre Dame in the 2003 Gator Bowl.

GAME 10

11/12 Florida State 17, NC State 10
November 11, 2004 • Carter-Finley Stadium
Raleigh, N.C.

With a national audience watching on ESPN, NC State and Florida State waged a classic defensive struggle in the Pack's home finale. The two teams combined for just 16 first downs (five via penalty) and 244 yards of total offense. The three quarterbacks who played managed to complete just 14 of 43 passes for 173 yards, and were sacked 10 times.

The Wolfpack defense turned in one of its best performances of the year, holding the Seminoles to 121 total yards on 68 plays for an average of 1.8 yards per snap. FSU got just nine first downs, two via penalty, and gained 48 net yards rushing on 50 carries, an average of 0.96 yards per rush. The Wolfpack defense intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble.

In the end, however, the 'Noles' defense and special teams helped to set up three short-field drives in the third quarter, which netted all 17 of their points. The three scoring drives netted just 69 yards, but each began on NC State's side of midfield. The third scoring drive by the Noles actually lost 11 yards, but resulted in a 44-yard field goal.

NC State's special teams and defense dominated the first half, staking the Wolfpack to a 10-0 halftime lead. Seminoles punter Chris Hall set the Pack up for business by shanking a punt for 20 yards from his own end zone, giving NC State the ball at the 26 with 1:54 left in the first quarter. The Pack was only able to advance 16 yards on six plays, but that was close enough for John Deraney to boot a 28-yard field goal, giving NC State a 3-0 lead nine seconds into the second quarter.

The Wolfpack defense held FSU to a three-and-out following the ensuing kickoff. Deraney appeared to atone for his botched punt of the previous possession by booming a 61-yarder to Blackman at the NC State 13. The Wolfpack freshman made a couple of nifty moves to free himself, however, and was off to the races, 87 yards for a touchdown. Blackman's punt return was the third-longest in school history and the longest since 1962.

The way the NC State defense was playing, a 10-0 lead looked pretty good, but field position came into play on the first few possessions of the third quarter to turn the game around. The Pack went three-and-out on its first possession, losing eight yards, and Deraney was forced to punt from his own end zone. The punt went 50 yards, but Willie Reid returned it 17 yards to the NC State 45. Nine plays later, Florida State was on the scoreboard after fullback James Coleman bulled into the end zone from the 1-yard line.

The following kickoff was a touchback, giving the Wolfpack the ball at its own 20, and three plays netted one yard. Another 50-yard punt from Deraney was offset by another nice punt return by Reid, this one 38 yards to the NC State 35. From there, the Seminoles needed five plays to take the lead, 14-10 with 6:38 left in the third quarter, on Lorenzo Booker's four-yard rush.

The final FSU score was set up when T.A. McLendon fumbled the ball at his own 16-yard line. Sam McGrew recovered for the Seminoles, and while the Wolfpack defense stiffened and pushed FSU backwards 11 yards on three plays, Gary Cismesia was still within easy field-goal range. His 44-yarder with 3:01 left in the third period gave Florida State a seven-point lead.

GAME 11

NC State 52, East Carolina 14
November 27, 2004 • Bank of America Stadium
Charlotte, N.C.

Jay Davis threw three touchdown passes and NC State allowed only 145 yards in a dominating 52-14 victory over East Carolina, spoiling the final game for Pirates' coach John Thompson.

The Wolfpack blocked a punt for a score, returned an inside kick for another and had an interception return for a TD nullified by an inadvertent whistle. Davis also scored the first rushing touchdown of his career.

But it was NC State's top-ranked defense that stole the show. East Carolina (2-9) played most of the game without starting quarterback James Pinkney, who left in the first quarter with a sprained knee. Backup Des Robinson, a senior playing for the fourth time in 2004, clearly wasn't comfortable running the offense.

He was pressured into two interceptions - a few more bounced off the hands of defenders - and even when he had time, he missed open receivers. Robinson finished 7-for-23 for 62 yards, including a completion to himself on a batted pass.

Still, the Pirates stayed close for most of the first half, tying the score at 7 when linebacker Chris Moore sacked Davis, forced a fumble, then recovered it in the end zone. The Wolfpack led only 10-7 late in the first half when Miguel Scott broke through and blocked Ryan Dougherty's punt, and he fell on the ball for a touchdown to make it 17-7.

The third quarter was miserable for ECU, which went three-and-out on all four of its series. Meanwhile, Davis found his rhythm, connecting with John Ritcher and Trammie Hall for TDs and diving in from the 3 on fourth down to put NC State ahead 38-7.

About the only drama in the second half came from the Pack's defensive prowess. Early in the fourth quarter, ECU had only three first downs for the game, which would have been a school record.

Holding ECU to minus 14 yards in the third quarter, the Wolfpack recorded 14 tackles for loss, three sacks and forced 11 punts. During one stretch between the second and fourth quarters, the Pirates had nine consecutive possessions without a first down. In back-to-back games against Florida State and East Carolina, NC State tallied 37 tackles for loss and forced a whopping total of 22 punts.

In 1972 and 1973, NC State boasted one of the top quartets of running backs ever assembled by a college team. Stan Fritts, Charley Young, Roland Hooks and Willie Burden were dubbed "The Stallions," and in their two seasons together, the foursome helped the Pack offense establish the top two scoring seasons in school history (34.1 ppg in 1972 and 33.0 ppg in 1973). Those records stood for 30 years until the 2003 Wolfpack squad shattered them with an average of 37.6.

Wolpack Timeline

March 12, 1892

The North Carolina A&M football team squares off against a team from the Raleigh Male Academy at Raleigh's Athletic Park (now Pullen Park). The Aggies record a 12-6 victory in a game that includes two 45-minute halves and has plowed lines to serve as the boundaries of the field. The A&M team wears pink and blue uniforms and nearly 200 people attend the game.

1893

The A&M "Farmers" play their first college game against Tennessee in Raleigh, winning 12-6.

1895

North Carolina A&M, under the direction of Coach Bart Gatling, dons red and white uniforms for the first time.

November 8, 1902

The Farmers battle to a 0-0 tie against the well-established powerhouse from North Carolina in a game at the State Fair Grounds. Following the contest, the entire student body at Trinity College (now Duke University) sends the Farmers a congratulatory telegram.

October 1, 1906

The Farmers use a new "trick play" in a 39-0 victory over Randolph-Macon at the Fair Grounds: the forward pass.

September 1907

The Farmers play their first game at the New Athletic Park on the school campus versus Richmond. The site later becomes known as Riddick Field and then Riddick Stadium. The Red Terrors also brought home NC State's first football title that year, winning the South Atlantic Championship with a 6-0-1 record.

1909

Season tickets are sold for the first time. The price for five games? $2.00!

1910

The Farmers post a 4-0-2 record and win the South Atlantic Championship

November 4, 1911

A scoreboard is installed at the A&M Athletic Field. The scoreboard informs the crowd which team has possession, the down and distance and the score.

The Farmers posts a 6-1 record and win another South Atlantic Championship

College, as A&M is now known, into reducing its schedule to four games. State produces its first All-American, as tackle John Ripple makes the Walter Camp second-team.

October 23, 1919

State and Carolina meet for the first time since 1905. State players wear uniform numbers for the first time and the first game program is printed.

1921

State joins the Southern Conference and begins to wear red sweaters instead of white sweaters. Local newspapers begin referring to the squad as the Wolpack for the first time.

1927

State wins its first official conference title (Southern Conference) with a 9-1 record.

September 1930

NC State opens the 1930 season by playing its first night game. Under the newly installed lights of Riddick Stadium, the Pack defeats High Point, 37-0.

1937

NC State's new coach, Doc Newton, believes that the offensive huddle slows play too much, so he develops "The Huddle without a Huddle," using an instrument that the Associated Press describes as "a metal gadget the size of a pocket watch and somewhat similar to a baseball umpire's [ball-strike] indicator." Before each play, the tailback sets two numbers on the indicator - one for the play called and one for the snap count. The indicator is passed on to each of the players at his assigned position, and then the tailback deposits the gadget into a special pocket in his uniform pants. Needless to say, the practice lasts just one season and Newton begrudgingly lets his team huddle before each play.

With every man over 18 who is fit for service inducted into the military, Coach Doc Newton doesn't have much to work with. To make matters worse, State hosts Army officer trainees and the Army won't allow its cadets to compete in intercollegiate athletics. North Carolina and Duke both host Navy programs, which allow its participants to play on varsity teams. The day before the Carolina game, 24 of Carolina's 90 players are placed on furlough by the Navy and the day before the Duke game, 23 members of that squad are transferred by the Navy. Nevertheless, State drops both contests.

November 10, 1945

Howard "Touchdown" Turner returns an interception 105 yards against Duke, the longest play in NC State history.

October 8, 1946

The Wolfpack appears in the UPI poll (19th) for the first time after a 14-7 win over Clemson.

January 1, 1947

The Wolfpack is invited to play in the second annual Gator Bowl contest in Jacksonville, Fla. Each school receives $30,000 for participating in the contest. Forty-two players travel to Florida for the game against Oklahoma.

October 23, 1948

The Wolfpack squad flies to an away game for the first time, bringing home a 7-0 win from Chattanooga.

October 21, 1950

The Wolfpack appears on television for the first time. The Dumont Network regionally televises a 16-13 NC State victory at eighth-ranked Maryland.

1952

The Southern Conference bans schools from playing in bowl games and limits squads to just 40 players for conference games.

1953

NC State joins the newly formed Atlantic Coast Conference. There is no league champion in the first year, but the ACC signs an agreement to send a conference school to the Orange Bowl for the next two years.

September 18, 1954

Earle Edwards coaches his first game at NC State, a 21-30 loss at Virginia Tech. Edwards would go on to win five ACC titles during his 17 seasons with the program and put NC State on the map in the college football scene.

November 23, 1957

Dick Christy scores all 29 of NC State's points in a 29-26 victory at South Carolina that gives the Pack its first ACC championship. Although he has never attempted a field goal in a game, Christy boots a 47-yarder to give the Pack the win. The score had been 26-26 with State driving, but the Gamecocks seem to seal State's fate by intercepting a pass. Fans spill out of the stands to celebrate, but a defensive pass interference call gives the Wolfpack one more play.

November 28, 1961

Quarterback Roman Gabriel completes 17-22 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns in a 38-14 win over South Carolina, setting the ACC record for career completions.

The old NC State press box was torn down in the spring of 2004 to make way for the state-of-the-art Vaughn Towers.

November 22, 1963

NC State clinches a share of the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship with a win over Wake Forest in Riddick Stadium. However, the celebration is overshadowed by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy that day in Dallas, Texas. The game had been moved to Friday night and news of the assassination came just hours before kickoff.

November 13, 1965

NC State plays its last game in Riddick Stadium, defeating Florida State, 3-0.

October 8, 1966

NC State plays its first game in the new Carter Stadium, losing 21-31 to South Carolina.

October 7, 1967

The Pack, with its "White Shoes" defense, upsets second-ranked Houston (7-6) in the Astrodome before a crowd of 52,483, the largest crowd ever to see an indoor football game at that time. Approximately 7,000 fans were waiting for the victorious State squad at the airport the next day.

1969

Clyde Chesney becomes the first African American to play football on the NC State varsity squad.

November 24, 1971

Thirty-four-year-old Lou Holtz is named head coach for the Wolfpack. Freshmen are eligible for the first time since World War II.

October 4, 1975

Ted Brown moves up from JV to varsity and makes his first start versus Indiana, running for 121 yards and two TDs on 17 carries. The game marks the first of 27 100+ yard rushing contests for Brown.

November 18, 1978

Ted Brown's #23 jersey is retired prior to a 24-10 win over Duke. Brown finishes his career with 4,602 yards, setting an ACC record that still stands.

November 17, 1979

NC State defeats Duke, 28-7, to claim the ACC title.

September 6, 1986

Head Coach Dick Sheridan and the diamond logo make their NC State debut, as NC State defeats East Carolina 38-10.

1991

NC State football celebrates its 100th birthday with a 9-3 record, a final AP ranking (24th), a second-place finish in the ACC, and its fourth consecutive trip to a bowl.

January 1, 1995

NC State makes its seventh consecutive bowl appearance, defeating Mississippi State 28-24 in the Peach Bowl.

September 12, 1998

The Wolfpack upsets No. 2 Florida State, 24-9, at Carter-Finley Stadium, marking the first victory over a team ranked that high since a 1967 victory second-ranked Houston.

January 6, 2000

Chuck Amato is named the 32nd head coach in NC State history, returning to his alma mater after 18 years at Florida State University. Along with a new attitude, Amato brings the "Block S" logo back to the Wolfpack after a 14-year absence.

November 10, 2001

With a 34-28 victory, NC State becomes the first league team to win at Florida State in the decade since the Seminoles joined the Atlantic Coast Conference.

October 26, 2002

With a 38-6 win at Clemson before a national, ESPN Thursday night audience, the Wolfpack runs its record to 9-0, the best start in school history. That mark ties the longest win streak in school history.

January 1, 2003

The Wolfpack completes the winningest season in school history (11-3) with a 28-6 win over Notre Dame in the Toyota Gator Bowl.

April 25, 2003

The Murphy Football Center is officially opened with a ribbon-cutting ceremony in the facility's Gant Plaza. The state-of-the-art building boasts over 100,000 square feet devoted solely to the Wolfpack football program.

November 22, 2003

Philip Rivers' jersey is retired before the Pack's final game. Rivers finished his career ranked second in NCAA history with 13,484 passing yards and 13,582 yards of total offensive, both ACC records. He was named the 2003 ACC Player of the Year after setting an NCAA Division I record for career starts by a quarterback with 51.

March 14, 2004

Demolition begins on the old press box to make way for "Vaughn Towers," Carter-Finley Stadium's new facility that will house luxury suites and press box begins to rise.

November 27, 2004

NC State plays its season finale and becomes just the third team in ACC history to lead the NCAA in total defense, giving up just 221.4 yards per game.

On September 2, 2000, in a steady downpour, two future Wolfpack legends took to the field for the first time together: freshman quarterback Philip Rivers and head coach Chuck Amato.

Wolfpack Traditions

CHRISTY 29, SOUTH CAROLINA 26

Probably the single most impressive achievement by an NC State football player occurred on November 23, 1957 in Columbia, S.C., when Dick Christy sealed the Wolfpack's first-ever ACC title by scoring all of his team's points.

The Chester, Pa., native scored four touchdowns, kicked two extra points and booted a 46-yard field goal after the final whistle had sounded (a defensive penalty had been called after Gamecock fans had stormed the field). The field goal attempt was Christy's first in a game situation.

Christy's grandson, Dick, is now the Wolfpack's Assistant Athletics Director for External Affairs.

Captain Captain

When Al Phillips played football for the Wolfpack, he went from being a captain, to being a captain. Phillips played as a freshman for NC State in 1939 before his National Guard unit was called into service. The Cary native spent the next 5-1/2 years in the military, rising to the rank of captain while spending most of his time serving in the infantry in the South Pacific.

When his tour of duty was completed in 1946, Phillips returned to NC State as a 27-year-old sophomore, and although his days in the military were over, his days as a captain weren't. Phillips was elected as a team co-captain in 1946 and helped lead the Wolfpack to its first-ever bowl appearance: the 1947 Gator Bowl. He was elected a captain again in 1947.

Grid-Graph

A new technological innovation, the Grid-Graph, was used for the first time on November 4, 1911, when the Farmers played at Navy. The grid graph was installed in Pullen Hall in order to help fans follow the squad when it played on the road. Information from the game was sent via telegraph wire to Pullen Hall and the results were written on a large blackboard. Gentlemen who wished to follow the road games were charged a quarter to monitor the grid-graph. Ladies were admitted free of charge.

Robot Wolf

In 1946, NC State was 8-2 and lost to Oklahoma in the 1947 Gator Bowl, the first postseason bowl appearance in school history. That same year was also key to the adoption of the nickname "Wolfpack" for all varsity sports the following year. Many people have heard the story of how the nickname came about, but few have heard of the Robot Wolf, the first mascot at NC State.

A mechanical engineering student, Ira Helms, planned to design and build a robot wolf for the Wake Forest game. After weighing the cost and difficulty of making a robot wolf, Helms opted for a hollow wolf that a person could wear as a large metal suit. The metal wolf stood seven feet tall with a 120-inch chest and size 16 shoes. Helms was inside the "wolf" while a student operated a fake control box from the outside creating the illusion of a robot wolf. Helms only wore the metal wolf for one game, but the cheerleaders took over the controls of "Helm's Monster" for the rest of the season. It was never used again, but the birth of a mascot had taken place.

Conference Titles

NC State has won nine official conference titles (as well as three South Atlantic Championships in the first decade of the 20th century). The legendary Earle Edwards led the Wolfpack to five ACC Championships during his 17-year tenure as head coach, while Lou Holtz and Bo Rein each gained a league title for NC State.

Current Wolfpack head coach Chuck Amato was a player on the 1966 ACC Championship squad, and was an assistant coach on the 1973 and 1979 State squads that also won league titles.

Hall of Famers

Former Wolfpack consensus All-American Jim Ritcher recently became the third NC State player to be inducted into the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame. The honor is the highest one accorded in the collegiate game. Ritcher joined Jack McDowall, who played for NC State from 1925-27 and was inducted in 1975, and former Pack quarterback Roman Gabriel, who was inducted in 1988.

WALK OF CHAMPIONS

It might be a new tradition, but it has become one of the fans' and players' favorite parts of Wolfpack football. A couple of hours before kickoff, fans begin lining the walkways in front of the Murphy Football Center, forming a path for the team to walk through. When the team buses arrive, the coaches and players walk across the front of the Murphy Center to the lockerroom entrance on the opposite side of the building.

The band and cheerleaders are there, but the majority of the excitement comes from the thousands of Wolfpack fans who line the narrow path, cram between trees and jam the plaza in front of the building to cheer on the Pack before they get dressed for the game.

Kool Koyotes

Although the 1967 squad is generally remembered as the team with the "White Shoes" defense, that squad earned another nickname that also gained national recognition at the time. That season, the NC State students responsible for buying the team's live wolf mascot were duped by an unscrupulous animal dealer. These students were obviously not zoology majors, as they purchased a coyote, thinking it was a wolf. When the hoax became public, the team became known as the "Kool Koyotes," a nickname that stuck, thanks in large part to an article in Sports Illustrated.

"Like a Wolfpack"

This was the complaint made about the student body's behavior at athletic events by a disgruntled fan in 1922. Prior to that comment, the State teams had been referred to as the Farmers, the Aggies, the Techs, and the Red Terrors. The new nickname obviously stuck, probably much to the consternation of that disgruntled fan!

In 1945, during the height of the second World War, the German U-boat fleet was commonly referred to as the "Wolfpack." Because of this negative connotation, Chancellor J.W. Harrelson attempted to get the student body to agree to change the athletic nickname. The student body wanted nothing to do with the suggestion, and even went so far as to purchase a live wolf to roam the sidelines.

The wolf was nicknamed State, but he made just one appearance at Riddick Stadium. According to UPI, the wolf had "to be dragged across the field, a sniping and snarling bundle of fur."

NFL Coaches

When Bill Cowher was playing linebacker for the Pack in the 70's, he certainly made an impact on Wolfpack opponents. These days, he's making an impact as a coach for the Pittsburgh Steelers. Cowher enters his 14th season with the Steelers, and is the most tenured coach in the NFL. He was only the second coach in NFL history to lead his team to the playoffs during his first six seasons as head coach. In 1995, at age 38, he became the youngest coach to lead his team to a Super Bowl.

Cowher isn't the only former Wolfpack player to become a head coach in the professional ranks. Alex Webster, who led the Southern Conference in scoring with 78 points in 10 games in 1950, signed with the Washington Redskins and went on to become a star in the Canadian Football League for the next two seasons before returning to the states to join the New York Giants in 1955. After a long, successful

IT MUST BE THE SHOES

Before the 1967 season opener with North Carolina, a group of Wolfpack defenders, led by a fiery senior named Chuck Amato, came up with a unique fashion statement that would bond their unit together: they took their black cleats and polished them white. After a 13-7 victory over the Tar Heels, the polishing quickly became a Friday night tradition.

The Pack defense allowed just 94 points in 11 games that season, but the luck that may or may not have had anything to do with shoe color almost came to an end when the squad traveled to the Astrodome to play second-ranked Houston.

Because the game would be played on artificial grass, the Pack had to borrow soccer shoes from the Houston Athletic Department.

The defensive players pondered the ethical implications of changing the color of the borrowed footwear, but finally decided that the white shoes were a necessity. The charm worked, as the Pack defense held the nation's top-ranked offense scoreless in three quarters, recovered three fumbles, intercepted two passes, blocked an extra point and a field goal attempt in an NC State upset.

tenure in the Giants' backfield, when he rushed for a franchise record 4,638 yards from 1955-64, "Big Red" became a coach. He was named the head coach of the Giants in 1969 and served in that role for five years.

Monte Kiffin, the Pack's head coach from 1980-82, has been an NFL assistant for the past 21 years, winning a Super Bowl ring with the Tampa Bay Bucs in 2003.

100-Yard Games

Even though it's been two decades since Ted Brown wore the red and white of NC State, the consensus All-American and four-time All-ACC running back still owns the ACC's longest 100-yard rushing game streak. He set the record by going over the century mark in nine straight games: the last five games of 1977 and the first four games of 1978.

Brown played in 42 games for the Wolfpack and surpassed 100 yards in 27 of those contests. No wonder he tallied 4,602 rushing yards during his career at NC State, still an ACC record.

"The...(pink and blue...brown and white)... red and white from State..."

When NC State was founded in 1887, it was called the North Carolina College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts (A&M). When A&M fielded its first football team in 1892, the squad took the field in pink and blue uniforms. In 1895, after three years wearing the not quite intimidating color scheme, the squad voted to wear brown and white. That less than colorful design lasted just a year before the student body decided on red and white for the school colors.

Riddick Stadium

When football began at NC State in 1892, the team practiced on whatever parts of the campus were uncultivated and without trees. Some of the earliest playing fields the Pack used were at Pullen Park, the State Fairgrounds and the area where Thompson Theater now stands.

In 1905, the school trustees approved using a portion of the campus known as the Crawford Farm as a permanent stadium site. In 1907, the new stadium was ready for play. The facility was officially named Riddick Stadium in 1912 after W.C. Riddick, who was considered the "Father of Athletics" at North Carolina State College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts.

Riddick Stadium was eventually enlarged to accommodate crowds of 20,000 and served as the home of the Wolfpack through the 1965 season. The old stadium field is now a parking lot, with one side of the stands still standing until this year. The old field house has been converted into the headquarters for NC State's Public Safety Department.

Going Bowling

Chuck Amato is just the fourth coach in ACC history and the second in NC State history to earn bowl appearances in each of his first four years as head coach. Amato's 2000 squad defeated Minnesota in the micropc.com Bowl, the 2001 squad fell to Pittsburgh in the Tangerine Bowl, and the 2002 Wolfpack upended Notre Dame in the Gator Bowl. In 2003, NC State walloped Kansas, 56-26, in the Mazda Tangerine Bowl in Philip Rivers final collegiate game.

Lou Holtz took the Wolfpack to four straight bowl games from 1972-75 (Peach, Liberty, Bluebonnet and Peach). Bobby Ross took his first four Maryland squads to bowl games (Aloha, Citrus, Sun and Cherry), while Tommy Bowden has taken his first five Clemson squads to bowls (two Peach, Gator, Humanitarian and Tangerine).

State Fair

NC State football and the North Carolina State Fair became a tradition when Carter-Finley Stadium opened in 1966. The stadium and fairgrounds are adjacent to one another, and 50 weeks a year this allows the university to use the fairgrounds' parking lots for football game-day and other stadium event parking.

However, for those other two weeks, parking is definitely at a premium for both events. Fair Week is in October every year, right in the middle of football season, and when the Wolfpack plays a home game that week the gridlock that ensues is utterly spectacular.

Capacity at Carter-Finley Stadium is 53,800 and a typical Saturday crowd at the fair, especially on a sunny day, is more than twice that. That means that when NC State football and the fair collide, more than 150,000 people all converge on an area that is about one square mile in size, creating some interesting traffic issues.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

Jim and John Ritcher

NC State boasted the first pair of brothers to earn first-team All-ACC honors in the same year when quarterback Dave Buckey and wide receiver Don Buckey were honored in 1975. Since then, two other pairs of brothers (Al and Keeta Covington of Maryland and Ronde and Tiki Barber of Virginia) have accomplished the feat. Dave played quarterback for the Wolfpack, setting several passing records that have since been broken, while Don did the same thing on the receiving end of the ball. Don would go on to earn All-America accolades.

Although they didn't earn it in the same year, another set of Wolfpack brothers has won All-ACC honors. Torry Holt was a first-team all-league performer in 1997 and 1998 (and was the conference player of the year in 1998), while his younger brother Terrence earned All-ACC honors in 2001 and 2002 as a free safety.

In addition to brothers, the Pack also has a couple of legacy members on the 2005 football squad. Jim Ritcher, who won the 1979 Outland Trophy at NC State, is the proud father of John, a redshirt senior tight end. Johnny Evans, who won All-America honors as a punter in 1977, has two sons on this year's squad: Daniel, a quarterback, and Andrew, a halfback.

Andrew, Daniel and Johnny Evans

Heads ... or Heads?

A 0-6 conference record and an overall season record of 1-9 wasn't the only thing that went wrong in 1959. The Wolfpack lost every single coin toss that season, and after sneaking by Virginia Tech in the opener 15-13, NC State lost nine straight games and was outscored by 86 points during that stretch.

Textile Bowl

In 1981, the football series between NC State and Clemson began being promoted as the Textile Bowl. In terms of textile production and employment, the states of North and South Carolina are known as national leaders and the textile schools at the two universities are widely recognized as among the best in the world (NC State boasts the world's largest school of textiles).

For the past 11 years, the North Carolina Textile Manufacturers Association has presented NC State with $5,000 for its athletic scholarship fund in the name of the Wolfpack's Most Valuable Performer in the Clemson game.

Triple Crown

NC State is the only ACC school that has won football, basketball and baseball championships in the same year. The Pack captured the "triple crown" during the 1973-74 season. The basketball team went on to win the NCAA title, the football team defeated Kansas in the Liberty Bowl, and the baseball team won the ACC Championship.

Sign of the Wolf

It's easy to do: just touch your middle finger and your ring finger to your thumb to make the nose and hold your pinkie and your forefinger in the air to make the ears. You've made a wolf!

Wolfpack Two-Timers

In the storied history of NC State football, many players have excelled in more than one sport. The versatility of Wolfpack athletes dates back to the turn of the (last) century and applies to the coaching ranks as well. Arthur Devlin, who coached the State football squad in 1902 and 1903 played professional baseball in the summers and left his job as head football coach when he was called up by the New York Giants prior to the 1904 season.

Former QB Terry Harvey set career records for passing yards and total offense in the early 90's, and added career records for pitching wins, inning pitched and games started on the baseball diamond.

Olin Hannum, a junior college transfer who joined the Pack in 2000, was also a two-sport athlete. The quarterback received scholarship offers in rodeo following his high school career.

The sport that has attracted the largest number of Wolfpack football players has been track and field. Former Wolfpack gridiron greats Jason Perry, Michael Brooks, Reggie Lawrence, Danny Peebles, Alvis Whitted and Perry Williams all earned All-America accolades for their performances.

In recent seasons, several Wolfpack players competed in other sports for the Red and White. Offensive lineman Leroy Harris has competed with the NC State wrestling squad. Three seasons ago, cornerback Dovonte Edwards joined the men's basketball team during the offseason and travelled to the NCAA Tournament. In 2004, defensive end Manny Lawson and cornerback A.J. Davis both won All-ACC honors in the indoor and outdoor long jump. Joining Davis and Lawson this past track season were sprinters Brian Clark, DaJuan Morgan, Miguel Scott and Jimmie Sutton.

Super Bowl Rings

Fourteen former Wolfpack players boast 21 Super Bowl rings and have won nine NFL Championships. Charley Young, who played for the Wolfpack from 1971-73, was the first NC State alumnus to play in the big game, as he was a member of the Dallas Cowboy squad that won Super Bowl X in 1976.

Jim Ritcher played in four different Super Bowls, all for the Buffalo Bills, while Perry Williams and Mike Cofer each played on two Super Bowl Championship squads.

Three former Wolfpackers played in the 2000 Super Bowl, Torry Holt and Ray Agnew for the champion St. Louis Rams, and Mike Jones for the Tennessee Titans. Holt has now played in two Super Bowls in his four years in the league.

Retired Jerseys

ROMAN GABRIEL (QB)

At NC State: A two-time All-American, Roman Gabriel starred at quarterback for NC State in the early 1960's and finished his career holding virtually every Wolfpack passing record. An academic All-American, Gabriel saw his jersey retired and presented to him by Governor Terry Sanford on Jan. 20, 1962 at half-time of an NC State-Maryland basketball game in Reynolds Coliseum. A first-round draft pick by the Los Angeles Rams, he went on to a distinguished professional career.

In the Professional Ranks: Gabriel went on to play 15 seasons in the NFL, splitting time with the Los Angeles Rams (1962-72) and the Philadelphia Eagles (1973-77). He was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player in 1969 and earned Pro Bowl spots in 1967, 1968, and 1969. He ranked as the Rams' all-time passing leader with 22,223 yards and 154 touchdowns (1,705 com./3,313 att.) and threw for 7,221 yards and 45 touchdowns (661 com./1,185 att.) with the Eagles. In 1973, he led the NFL with 3,219 yards and 23 touchdown passes. He still holds the Rams' career records for: touchdown passes (154), passing yards (22,223), passes attempted (3,313), and passes completed 1,705

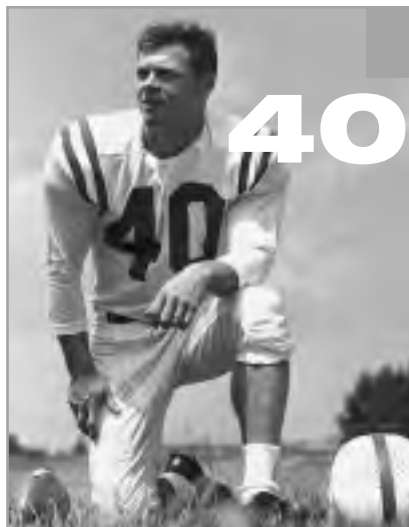

JIM RITCHER (OL)

At NC State: Jim Ritcher is one of three Atlantic Coast Conference players to win the Outland Trophy, awarded annually to the nation's premier lineman. A two-time consensus All-American, Ritcher won the Outland Trophy as a Wolfpack senior in 1979, when he literally cleared the way for NC State to earn the ACC Championship. Still an active member of the Wolfpack family, Ritcher, whose son John is a redshirt freshman for the 2002 squad, thrived in the NFL for 16 years, playing in four Super Bowls with the Buffalo Bills. Ritcher's No. 51 was retired on Feb. 8, 1987. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1998.

In the Professional Ranks: A first-round draft choice in 1980, Ritcher went on to play 16 seasons in the NFL, splitting time with the Buffalo Bills (1980-93) and the Atlanta Falcons (1994-95). An All-Pro choice in 1986, 1988, and 1990, Ritcher played in the 1992 and 1993 Pro Bowls. He also played in four Super Bowls with Buffalo and played in more games than any other Buffalo Bill (225).

DICK CHRISTY (HB)

At NC State: Scoring all 29 of NC State's points, Dick Christy earned the Wolfpack its first Atlantic Coast Conference Championship in a 29-26 win in the Pack's season-finale at South Carolina on Nov. 23, 1957. Christy earned first team All-America recognition from the Associated Press and United Press International for his efforts that season. He ended his career in '57, holding 14 NC State records and four ACC records. Nearly 40 years later, Christy's jersey was retired on Nov. 8, 1997 in a game against Maryland.

In the Professional Ranks: Christy played five seasons in the NFL, splitting time with the Pittsburgh Steelers (1958), Boston Patriots (1960) and the New York Titans (1961-63). He was selected to play in the 1962 AFL All-Star game and led the AFL and NFL in punt returns in 1961 and 1962 with 21.3 and 16.7 yards per return, respectively. In 1962, he was named his team's MVP, when he led the squad in rushing, punt returns and kickoff returns.

TED BROWN (RB)

At NC State: Ted Brown is inarguably the greatest running back to play for NC State, if not in the entire Atlantic Coast Conference. A native of High Point, N.C., Brown rushed for a school and ACC record 4,602 yards from 1975-78. He scored 51 touchdowns during his career, which still stands as the top mark in ACC history. His jersey was retired during pregame ceremonies prior to his final home game on Nov. 18, 1978 against Duke. He was a first-round draft pick of the Minnesota Vikings where he enjoyed an all-star career.

In the Professional Ranks: Brown starred for eight seasons in the NFL as a member of the Minnesota Vikings squad from 1979-86. He scored 53 career touchdowns (40 rushing and 13 receiving), the fifth-best mark in Viking history. His 4,546 career rushing yards ranks third in the history of that franchise.

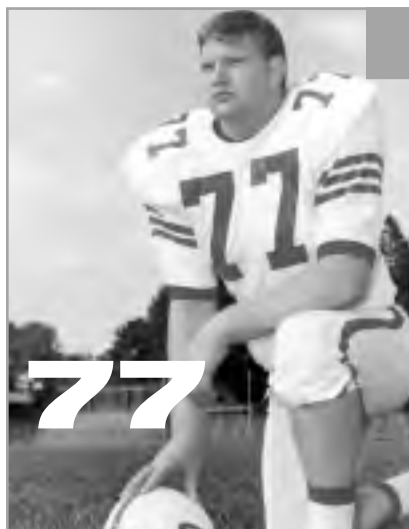

TORREY HOLT (WR)

At NC State: Torrey Holt was a human highlight film for NC State from 1995-98, and culminated his career by being named a consensus All-American. Holt rewrote the NC State record books, setting single game, single season and career records in almost every passing category. He also set an ACC record with 3,379 reception yards for his career. The two-time All-ACC performer was named the ACC Player of the Year and Offensive Player of the Year following his senior campaign, and was also a finalist for the Biletnikoff Award, honoring the nation's top wide receiver. His jersey was retired on Jan. 16, 1999 during halftime ceremonies of the final NC State-UNC basketball contest that was played in Reynolds Coliseum.

In the Professional Ranks: Holt was a first-round draft pick of the Saint Louis Rams in 1999, the sixth selection overall. He won a Super Bowl ring during his rookie campaign, and led the NFL in receiving in 2000. That season, he also set an NFL record by averaging 63 yards per reception in a game against Atlanta. A first-team All-Rookie selection in 1999, Holt is the Rams' all-time leader in postseason receptions (37) and receiving yards (459).

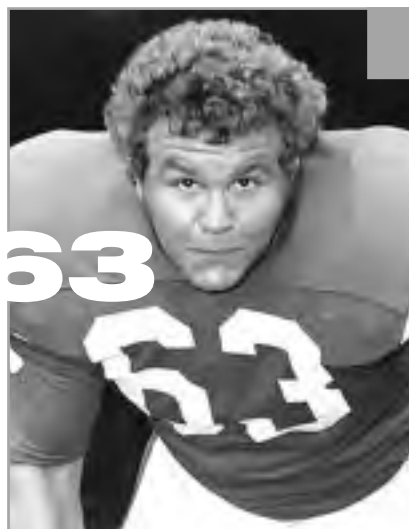

DENNIS BYRD (DL)

At NC State: Dennis Byrd was a dominating presence for the Wolfpack's famed "White Shoes" defense, competing on the defensive line for NC State from 1965-57. An adept pass rusher who combined size, agility, strength and a desire for hitting, Byrd was the Pack's first consensus All-American, earning honors in 1967. He was also the first three-time All-ACC player in league history, earning accolades all three years that he lettered. As a junior, he led the voting for All-ACC lineman and after his senior campaign, participated in four college all-star games.

In the Professional Ranks: Byrd was a first-round draft pick of the Boston Patriots of the American Football League in 1968.

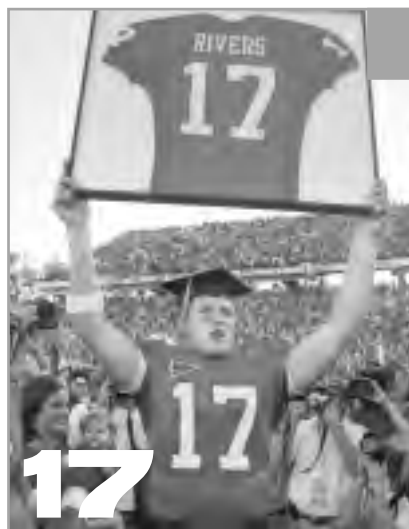

BILL YOEST (OG)

At NC State: A consensus All-American guard, Bill Yoest lettered for the Wolfpack from 1970-73 and was the recipient of the 1973 Jacobs Blocking Trophy. A Pittsburgh native, Yoest won All-America honors from the Associated Press, UPI, Football Writers, Football Coaches, NEA and Walter Camp that season. Yoest was selected for two postseason all-star games, the '74 Hula Bowl and the East-West Shrine Game, in which he was elected co-captain of the East squad. His No. 63 was retired at halftime of the North Carolina game, Sept. 27, 2003.

In the Professional Ranks: Played a short stint with the Orlando Blazers of the World Football League and then returned to Raleigh, where he started a financial services business.

PHILIP RIVERS (QB)

At NC State: The 2003 ACC Player of the Year, Philip Rivers started all 51 games at quarterback for the Wolfpack over his four years, an NCAA record. Rivers rewrote the record books for both NC State and the ACC in every passing and total offense category. Rivers ended up the second-leading passer in NCAA history with 13,494 career passing yards and 13,582 career yards of total offense and finished tied for fifth in NCAA history with 95 career TD passes. The Athens, Ala., native capped off his marvelous career with a stellar senior season in which Rivers led the nation with a 72.0 completion percentage and 170.49 pass efficiency rating. Rivers became the first QB in ACC history and only the seventh in NCAA history to throw for 3,000 yards in three different seasons. The MVP of the 2003 Tangerine Bowl with his fifth 400-yard passing day of the year, Rivers was also named the MVP of the Senior Bowl. His jersey, number 17, was retired before his final home game, Nov. 22, 2003.

In the Professional Ranks: A first round draft choice, Rivers was selected by the New York Giants with the fourth pick of the 2004 NFL Draft and was traded to the San Diego Chargers minutes later.

1950 - Chicago Tribune (1st)

At 220 pounds, Elmer Costa was touted as the heaviest player on the Wolfpack squad in the late 40's. A two-time All-Southern Conference honoree, he helped the Pack earn a huge upset versus Maryland in 1950 in NC State's first televised game. He was named the AP's National Lineman of the Week for that performance.

Dick Christy, Halfback

1957 - Associated Press (1st); UPI (1st)

A Chester, Pa., native, Dick Christy starred on the Wolfpack freshman squad in 1954 and then advanced to the varsity the following year. At 5-10, 190 pounds, he led the team in rushing with 602 yards that season, and then ran for 589 yards, threw for 123 yards and returned kickoffs and touchdowns in 1956. He will always be remembered for scoring all 29 points in NC State's 29-26 win over South Carolina in 1957 that clinched the ACC title. He was named the ACC Player of the Year and ACC Athlete of the Year as a senior.

Koren Robinson, Wide Receiver

2000 - Football News (2nd), AP (3rd)

Koren Robinson was named first-team All-ACC as a wide receiver and return specialist and was selected second-team All-American by Football News in 2000. A semi-finalist for the 2000 Biletnikoff Award, he became the second wide receiver in school history to go over 1,000-yards in a season, joining former Wolfpack wide receiver and consensus All-American Torry Holt at NC State. He concluded his brief two-year career ranked fifth in school history with 1,914 receiving yards and seventh in receptions with 110. Robinson tied the school record with Holt for most 100-yard receiving games with 14 and was a first-round draft pick of the Seattle Seahawks in 2001.

COVERING THE WOLFPACK

The NC State Media Relations Office wants to make covering the Wolfpack an enjoyable and productive experience for the media. Please feel free to call any of us at any time for information or interviews.

CREDENTIALS - Credentials for NC State home games are issued for working media only and should be requested as soon as possible due to space limitations and demand. Requests are honored from sports editors of DAILY newspapers and television sports directors only. Requests from weekly newspapers and radio stations will be accepted only from those who will be attending games in a WORKING capacity and will be filled on a space-available basis. Spouses, dates, and non-workers are not permitted in the press box.

IMPORTANT DATES

Team Reports	Aug. 2
First full-squad practice	Aug. 4
Meet the Pack/Media Day	Aug. 14
First day of classes	Aug. 17
Season Opener vs. Va. Tech	Sept. 4

Credentials will be mailed if time permits or can be picked up at the Media Relations Office until 3:00 p.m. the day before the game. Otherwise, they will be left at the press will-call booth adjacent to Gate 5, which is in the south endzone by the Murphy Center.

Requests should be made in writing to Assistant Athletics Director for Media Relations Annabelle Vaughan at Box 8502, Raleigh, NC 27695-8501 or via fax at (919) 515-2898.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE - NC State football practices are open to the photographers only for the first 20 minutes on most Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, but you must contact the Media Relations Office if you plan to attend. If media members wish to conduct brief interviews with Coach Amato or players following practice, they should check with the media relations staff to find out what time practice will conclude.

INTERVIEW POLICIES

Monday Media Conference

Coach Amato plays host to a weekly media conference on Mondays at 2:00 p.m. in the Murphy Center Media Room. A Wolfpack player will also be in attendance. Coach Amato will visit with electronic media for approximately 30 minutes, while the player meets with the print media. The two will switch places at approximately 2:30 p.m.

The media conference may also be accessed by appropriate media outlets via teleconference. Please call the Media Relations Office to obtain the number.

Sunday Afternoon Teleconference

Coach Amato will be available briefly via telephone on Sunday afternoons following games. Please call the media relations office to access the phone number and time.

Player Interviews

Players are available for interviews in person or via telephone on Mondays through Wednesdays of game weeks. All player interviews should be scheduled through the Media Relations Office and most will be conducted in the Media Relations Office or after practice. NC State players will not accept calls from members of the media in their rooms.

Post-Practice Interviews

Coach Amato and the coaching staff will be available to the media after practice on the field on Tuesdays through Thursdays, while players will be available on Tuesday and

HOW TO GET TO CARTER-FINLEY STADIUM/MURPHY CENTER:

From the west (airport): Take 1-40 to the Wade Avenue exit; Take the first exit off of Wade on Edwards Mill Road. Turn right on Edwards Mill and then turn left at the light on Trinity Road. The stadium and the operations center are on your left.

From the east: Take I-40 west to the Carter-Finley Stadium exit.

Wednesday. Interviews will be conducted only after all practice and conditioning work is completed. The media is encouraged to attempt to schedule player interviews earlier in the day. Only brief player interviews will be allowed after practice.

Postgame Interviews

Following a brief cooling-off period, requested NC State players will be brought to the Murphy Center Media Room. Requests for players will be collected in the press box, midway through the fourth quarter. A representative from the Media Relations Office will also collect requests from the on-field media near the end of the game.

Approximately 10 minutes after the players begin their interview session, Coach Amato will be available as well.

Injury Reports

If a player is injured during the course of a game, an announcement will be made in the press box regarding the type of injury and if the player is expected to return to the game.

Coach Amato will give an update on any injuries at his Monday afternoon press conference and the media relations office will send out an updated injury report on Friday afternoons. There will be no other updates on injuries during the week.

GAME DAY SERVICES

Press Box - The NC State press box is located in Vaughn Towers on the west side of Carter-Finley Stadium.

Press Parking - Press parking is located in the Fairgrounds Lot, closest to Gate B.

Media Services - Complete individual and team statistics, running play-by-play and post-game coaches' quotes and notes are provided for all working media. Complete game books will also be delivered to the postgame interview area. A pregame meal is also available for the media approximately 90 minutes before kickoff.

Telephones - This season, the press box will be equipped with a limited number of phones, but wireless access will be available. All long-distance calls must be made collect, by using a credit card, or be billed to a third party.

WOLFPACK FOOTBALL WITH CHUCK AMATO

Wolfpack football fans can enjoy a unique perspective on the NC State football program by tuning in to Coach Chuck Amato's weekly television show. The 30-minute show can be seen locally on WRAL-TV in Raleigh on Sundays at 11:35 p.m. Check the gopack.com site for affiliates.

To gain field access, photographers must also wear an armband. Armbands may be picked up 90 minutes prior to kickoff in the media area of Vaughn Towers. In accordance with NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference rules, photographers will not be allowed between the 25-yard lines. Only WORKING photographers will be allowed on the field during the game. A media relations representative will be on the field at all times to assist the photographers with any needs they may have.

ACC WEEKLY COACHES TELECONFERENCE

The 12 ACC football coaches will be featured on a weekly teleconference each Wednesday from 10:30 a.m., to 12:30 p.m. Each coach will have 10 minutes to make an opening statement and answer questions.

A fax machine will also be available for filing. Writers needing items faxed should contact a member of the media relations staff prior to the game.

Photographers - Phones line and wireless access for filing will be available in Vaughn Towers.

WOLFPACK-CAPITOL SPORTS NETWORK

The Wolfpack-Capitol Sports Network, one of the leading broadcasting units in the nation, will be heard for the 44th year through North Carolina and across much of the Eastern seaboard during the 2005 football season.

The network is managed by multi-media partner Wolfpack Sports Marketing. The flagship station is WPTF-680 Am, a 50,000-watt station in Raleigh.

All the action is brought to the devoted Wolfpack listeners by veteran play-by-play man Gary Hahn, who is in his 16th season as the voice of the Wolfpack. Joining Hahn in the booth is former Wolfpack All-American Johnny Evans, who provides color commentary. Manning the sidelines will be NC State alumnus Tony Haynes, who is returning for his seventh season covering NC State football.

Following each contest, the network follows the Pack into the locker room for live interviews with head coach Chuck Amato and NC State's players.

For more information about the Wolfpack-Capitol Sports Network, contact Wolfpack Sports Marketing, 711 Hillsborough Street, P.O. Box 12900, Raleigh, NC 27605, or call (919) 831-9653.
